Blaine Paroles 'Cy' Westbury; Scores Hoppmann

Hits Mental Attitude of Local Judge

Opinion That Alleged Thief Should Get Life Was Wrong, Says Blaine

Acts On Booze Cases

Three Liquor Law Violators Have Sentences Commuted; Many Denied

Everett "Cy" Westbury, sentenced from superior court here Mar. 13, 1922 to serve 7 years in state's prison for assault with intent to rob was granted a conditional parole from the state penitentiary at Waupun late Friday by Gov. John J. Blaine.

Westbury's case was one of the twenty-four pardon applications passed on by Gov. Blaine.

Archie Buchanan, Madison man, who was sentenced from superior court Feb. 13, 1922, to serve two and a half years at Waupun for embezzlement, was the only other Dane county man to apply for a pardon. Gov. Blaine took no action on his case. Buchanan's sentence will expire Mar. 24, however.

Westbury was arrested on the complaint of a Chicago traveling salesman who charged Westbury with robbery.

Scores Judge Hoppmann

In granting the Westbury parole, Gov. Blaine scored Judge A. C. Hoppmann, who sentenced him.

"The judge who sentenced him advised the warden that he thought this man belonged to a class of criminals who should be committed for life, and probably that mental attitude had a great deal to do with the imposition of the sentence," Gov. Blaine said in his statement.

"Westbury was convicted on the testimony of a transient. It appears that he took a small amount of money, a watch, a fountain pen and a tie pin. The jury had a difficult time convicting him, deliberating 30 hours.

"The district attorney, however, had an entirely different view of Westbury, he expressing the opinion that he is a likeable, big-hearted

Dock Men Strike

120,000 British Workers Drop Work; May Tie Up Ocean Freight

By the Associated Press)

LONDON—The strike of dock workers affecting 120,000 men became effective at noon today in all ports of the United Kingdom.

Steamship operators said today they expected to be able to maintain their schedules with the ocean going passenger ships, but feared that the vast water-borne freight traffic to and from ports in the United Kingdom would be greatly slackened, entailing irestimable losses to themselves and shippers in general.

Yeggs Blow Safe at Milton Junction P. O.

JANESVILLE, Wis. — Skilled yeggs using the old "soap and soup" method blasted open the big wall safe in the Milton Junction Postoffice early Saturday morning and escaped with between $500 and $600, in stamps and money. The robbery was not discovered until the postoffice was opened up Saturday morning.

BEAVER DAM—Sydney Davis, employed on the Drake farm near here, lost two fingers on his right hand when he got them in the way of a circular saw.

Movement to Estrange English and Americans Is Dangerous

Author of "The Outline of History" Attacks Belloc's Book; Would Halt Development of Civilization View

(Copyrighted, 1924, by The Capital Times and The McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

MR. BELLOC has written a small and imposing book about America and England called "The Contrast." Small it is in length and substance, but imposing in its English edition, at least, by reason of large print, vast margins, thick paper and all that makes a book physically impressive.

It is the sort of book that has the first sentence of chapter one on page nine. To the student of current events it is a very noteworthy book, indeed.

It betrays the drift of a very complex group of forces at work in our educational, journalistic and literary world, a group of forces desiring the separation of America from Europe, clamoring for the disengagement of America from participation in the development of a new phase of civilization and the arrest of that development.

Belloc is too often treated by American and English critics as merely a comic figure. A comic figure, no doubt, this bulky, gesticulating Frenchman is, with his pretensions to enormous bibulousness, with his affectation of fastidious but nonexistent scholarship, with his immense emphasis of his wild, impromptu classifications and his magnificent caricature and victorious dialectic. His prose style becomes more and more wonderfully suggestive of an after-dinner talker at his richest and jolliest. Sudden lapses into intense whispering, abrupt glorification of some phrase by the thick, loud enunciation of the unexpected.

Widow to Tell Story In Trial of Schreiber

Takes Stand In Trial of Salesman Charged With Fraud

Charging that Frank Schreiber, former Madison piano salesman, "used his handsomeness and beauty" to defraud Mrs. Bertha Adams, 212 S. Carroll st., out of $1,000, the state Friday afternoon in superior court here opened its case against the ex-music store agent before Judge A. C. Hoppmann.

Schreiber

Mrs. Adams, a widow, was the chief witness during the early stages of the trial. She related the incidents associated with her first meeting with Schreiber in a Baraboo hotel last September, and testified that in the presence of E. B. Trimpey, Baraboo photographer, Schreiber stated his intentions of marrying her.

The state will contend that Schreiber interested Mrs. Adams in an alleged invention, secured $1,000 from her and promised to marry her. Schreiber is a married man.

Mrs. Adams testified that during the week of Oct. 29, when Schreiber installed a new piano in her home, he had told her of his past life. She declared that he told her he had never married and when she asked him why he had not married he replied that he did not care much for flappers, that when he married his wife would be an older woman than himself.

"He was flattering me all the time," she stated.

Mrs. Adams said that during the month elapsing between the time she first saw Schreiber and the time

Kufahl Denies He Aided In Alleged Poison Plot

ELKHORN, Wis.—Ernest Kufahl, taking the stand in his own defense in his trial before Judge Chester Chowder Fowler for the murder of Edward Schaude, hurled the lie at Mrs. Schaude, denying all connection with the man's death and with the alleged plot to poison the Schaude children. He declared he knew of no strychnine in the house and said he did not mix any poison in prune juice to be given to Schaude, contradicting flatly the testimony of Mrs. Schaude, which laid the blame for the poison plot on his shoulders. The case is not expected to go to the jury before early next week. Mrs. Schaude's trial will follow that of Kufahl.

Jury Awards Nurse $7,000 At Jefferson

Mrs. Ralph McLery Wins Suit Against Her Mother-In-Law

JEFFERSON, Wis.—(Special)—Damages amounting to $7,000 was awarded to Mrs. Ralph McLery, pretty 27-year-old professional nurse of Stevens Point and Sullivan, by the jury which at 1:20 p. m. Saturday returned its verdict in the $25,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. McLery against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ida Effie McLery of Sullivan.

The jury deliberated only two hours. The young Mrs. McLery sued her mother-in-law, whom she charged with causing friction between herself and her husband, which ended in their separation on Jan. 1, 1923.

Judge George Grimm's circuit court room was filled to capacity when the verdict was read. The plaintiff has been employed at Forest Lawn sanitarium in Jefferson since her separation.

The ointcuit for $25,000 against Carrie Lumsden, Pasedena, Cal., has been dropped.

Tax Commission Ruling Settles Mooted Question Regarding New State Law

The law passed by the 1923 legislature, providing for levying of state income taxes on individuals and not on partnerships, is applicable to taxes levied in 1923 on 1922 incomes, according to a ruling Saturday by the state tax commission. The commission reversed a finding of the Dane county board of review, which had held that the act cannot be applied except on 1924 levies against 1923 incomes.

The decision was made on an appeal by H. R. Briggs, county assessor of incomes, from the board's action on the case of the local law firm of Olin, Butler, Thomas, Stebbins and Stroud.

Stalwarts In Division On Delegates

Philipp Wants Slate While Lenroot Opposes Conservative Lineup

Four Districts Chosen

Philipp Has Eye on the Seat In U. S. Senate Held By Lenroot

The stalwarts are "up in the air" over the delegate question in Wisconsin.

It is understood that E. L. Philipp, former governor is in favor of naming a set of Coolidge delegates to oppose the progressive slate but that President Coolidge and Senator Lenroot are opposed to such a plan. Mr. Philipp has already consented to become a candidate for delegate-at-large on such a slate.

Mr. Philipp's reason for a slate is said to be his desire to keep before the people of Wisconsin preliminary to the 1926 senatorial battle. Mr. Philipp has his eyes on the seat held in the United States senate by Lenroot. Mr. Philipp feels that in order to make the run in 1926 he must not permit the voters of Wisconsin to forget about him.

There are also increasing signs that Mr. Philipp is looking with more favor on the possibility of becoming a candidate for governor against Blaine. Stalwart scouts have been out in the state for some time looking over the ground with a view to determining the possibilities at the coming election.

Edward Morrisey, county judge in Walworth county, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election. Judge Morrissey was appointed by Gov. Blaine to succeed Judge Jay F. Lyon who died.

G. W. Leberman, Sheboygan, and Robert Caldwell, Lodi, were nominated as Republican district presidential delegates from the Second congressional district at a conference held Friday in Milwaukee. Every county in the district was represented, there being about 30 present.

Resolutions were adopted indorsing the Coolidge and Harding administrations and indorsing as candidates for Republican presidential delegates at large from Wisconsin, ex-Gov. E. L. Philipp, Milwaukee; H. L. Hoard, Fort Atkinson; W. S. Goodland, Racine, and E. F. Dithmar, Baraboo. These will appear on the primary ballot as Coolidge delegates.

A permanent congressional committee was named consisting of the chairman and secretary of the conference, David Bogue, Portage; Mr. Caldwell and George J. Kispert, of Jefferson. Charles Hawks, Horicon, presided over the conference and Mr. Leberman was secretary.

This is the fourth district to nominate presidential delegates in opposition to the La Follette slate. Dr. E. T. Lobedan and State Senator Ben Gettelman will be candidates from the Fifth district, and Arthur Barry and Senator George Czerwinski from the Fourth district.

The first district has also chosen delegates.

La Follette Is Opposed to George B. Christian

WASHINGTON, — Objection to confirmation of George B. Christian Jr., former secretary of President Harding, as member of the federal trade commission, was raised today by Sen. LaFollette on the ground that while at the white House, Mr. Christian had interested himself in an important case then and now pending before the committee. The case is that of the Famous Players-Laskey corp'n against which the commission issued a complaint in May, 1921. Sen. LaFollette's opposition was announced after Commissioner Huston Thompson had testified at a hearing before the senate interstate commerce committee that he was called to the White House by Mr. Christian, and criticised for having acted without giving the company a hearing.

WASHINGTON—Secret service operatives arrested James C. Houghton, employe of the bureau of engraving and printing, and Curt Jacobson, in connection with an alleged conspiracy to make and distribute counterfeit treasury notes of $1,000 denomination.

WEATHER

The highest temperature yesterday was 18 at 4 p. m., and the lowest was 14 at 8 p. m. The sun will set at 5:30. Increasing easterly winds, becoming northerly late Sunday. The barometer is high from the Great Lakes to Alberta, with low temperature in the lower lake regions and on the Canadian plains. Light rainfall has occurred in the middle valley states where the southwestern low is moving slowly eastward. The weather is generally fair in the west.

Senate Orders Nation-Wide Probe of Baking Industries

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A nation-wide inquiry by the federal trade commission into the milling and baking industries was ordered today by the senate in adopting a resolution by Sen. La Follette.

Profits of Madison Bakers

Charges that exorbitant prices are being asked for bread and that the baking concerns of the country are making extortionate profits were made in Washington this week in a report compiled by Basil Manley, director of the People's Legislative service. He charged further that the American people are paying $1,000,000 a day in undue profits for bread.

The Capital Times presents herewith the profits made by Madison bakeries in recent years. The profits made is the best answer to the charge that a concern is charging unfair prices. In the case of Piper Bros., the profits are for both the grocery and bakery departments. The profits made by the leading Madison bakeries in recent years follows:

PIPER BROS.

(There are four members of the Piper firm, each draws a salary. The salaries are not included in the profits)

1916—$2,622.01 profits, $4,000 salary to members.

Scott, Irish Are Fined $50 On Drunk Charge

Court Orders U. W. Men to Pay $100 to Police Patrolman

Ralph Scott and Russell Irish, both former prominent football stars at the University of Wisconsin, were arrested Friday night and fined $50 and costs each in superior court Saturday morning when they pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. In addition each was ordered by Judge Ole A. Stolen to pay Patrolman J. T.fi Mackessey $50 for damages done to his person and his clothing.

Patrolman Mackessey told the court that the two men created a disturbance in an E. Wilson st. restaurant about midnight Friday night, and that he attempted to lead them to a taxicab which was waiting in front of the restaurant for them.

When they reached the sidewalk, they resisted the officer, Mackessey said, and a scuffle ensued in which Mackessey's uniform was mutilated, his officer's cap ruined, and one of his teeth loosened.

Asisted by bystanders and by Patrolman William Frederick, Officer Mackessey succeeded in getting the two students in the cab and took them to the police station.

Judge Solen announced that he would report the matter o Dean S. H. Goodnight of the university.

Senator Is Hit By Bullet In Boot-leg War

Greene of Vermont Victim of Stray Shot; Falls In Wife's Arms

WASHINGTON— Senator Frank L. Greene, Republican, Vermont, was shot in the head Friday night as he and his wife passed an alley here, where a running fight was going on between revenue officers and policemen and two bootleggers.

When the bullet struck him, Senator Greene fell in the arms of his wife. He was immediately rushed to the emergency hospital where it was said his condition was not serious. The bullet entered his head just over his left eye.

The bootleggers, who were in a large touring car in which a huge still was seen by the officers, escaped.

House Asks Coolidge to Open Suit

Walsh Move to Regain California Oil Lands Wins Today

Roberts Under Attack

Hit La Follette Probe, Is Charge; Senator Asks Alaska Quiz

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Without debate the house adopted today the Walsh resolution directing the beginning of proceedings to recover sections 16 and 36 within naval oil reserve No. 1 in California, now operated by the Standard Oil Co. of California.

The measure now goes to President Coolidge who is directed by its terms to instruct special government counsel to prosecute the proceedings.

Steps to recover the two sections were taken in the Wilson administration but Albert B. Fall, as secretary of the interior, dismissed the proceedings on motion of the oil company.

The two sections which are within the confines of reserve No. 1, but not a part of it, were ceded by the federal government to California upon statehood as school and non-mineral lands. Oil subsequently was found and the Standard Oil Co. began development of the fields under state grant.

Roberts Is Under Attack

A sharp controversy on the question whether the nominations of the special government counsel in the oil cases would be considered by the senate in the open or behind closed doors occurred today immediately after the senate convened.

The senate voted today to consider in executive open session the nominations of Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene of Canton, Ohio, to be special government counsel in the oil cases. The action was taken at the instance of Democratic and Republican insurgent senators and over the determined efforts of Sen. Lodge to have the discussion take place behind closed doors.

Sen. La Follette took the lead, quoting Mr. Roberts' speech at a meeting of New York bankers a year ago.

Mr. Roberts said one year ago Friday night, that the senate subcommittee's investigation of the the oil industry was "propaganda" for nationalization of the industry.

La Follette For Alaska Probe

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON.—Sen. La Follette, who introduced the resolution that started the oil inquiry, proposed another today, also dealing with the leasing polices of former Secty. Fall.

Mr. La Follette's new measure, preparing after John E Ballaine of Seattle, an Alaskan railroad contractor, had presented allegations to President Coolidge relating to the transfer of the Matanuska coal reserve from the navy to the interior department, calls upon the interior secretary to submit his department's records on the matter to the senate.

A copy of the transfer agreement between Secretarys Fall and Denby is asked in the resolution together with all executive orders and other papers, including any lease made; applications for leases and correspondence on the subject.

Mr. Ballaine in a letter presented to the president yesterday asserted that negotiations for the transfer of the jurisdiction was begun by the two secretaries in July, 1921, and that the records would show plans to lease it for fifty years on terms "exactly parallel" with those of the Teapot Dome oil reserve transaction.

No lease was made, he said, but the transfer was followed by suspension of mining in the Matanuska field and refusal of the navy to utilize Alaskan coal.

Although navy tests show that some of the Alaskan coal is equal to or better than the high-grade Pocahontas coal, Fall contended it was unfit for navy use and that the continuation of the navy coal reserves was, therefore, useless. So, on May 15, 1922, he obtained from President Harding, and with the acquiescence of Secty. Denby, an executive order giving him jurisdiction over these reserves which previously had been set aside under the navy department.

The problem now is to find out just how much of these former navy reserves have been turned over to private coal interests. This investigation promises to open up a sequel to the Ballinger affair which grew out of the leasing of Alaska coal reserves to the Guggenheim interests.

they became acquainted she often found his car parked where she usually parked hers in places about the city. She maintained that Schreiber had admitted to her that he had seen her, became interested and secured her name through observing the license number on her car, applying to the state license bureau for information as to who had taken out the license.

During the week of Oct. 29, the two were often together, Mrs. Adams declared.

Twice during the week he sent her roses and once he brought her a gift, a framed picture of himself, she stated. Mrs. Adams also stated, as she did at the preliminary investigation, that Schreiber had told her about an invention of his and had told her of financial difficulties.

Asked whether Schreiber had mentioned marriage, Mrs. Adams replied that on Wednesday, Oct. 31, when the couple drove to Baraboo to secure a photograph of the new piano, Schreiber in the presence of the photographer, had declared they were to be wed.

"He took me by the arm and said, 'Mr. Trimpey, this is my sweetheart.' We are going to be married."

Mrs. Adams was on the witness stand when the trial was resumed Saturday morning. She was questioned by Mr. Sanborn relative to a note which she signed to obtain the $1,000 for Schreiber.

Spoke of Marriage

In testifying to the signing of the note, Mrs. Adams reiterated her statements at the preliminary hearing when she declared that she had first been refused a loan by Charles O'Neill, vice president of the Bank of Wisconsin, but that he later allowed her the money when she told him that she and Schreiber were to be married.

She also testified that, on the night of Nov. 5, when the note was signed, a woman called at her home and asked to see Schreiber and that she thought the woman was one whom Schreiber had told her had been following him and that he did not want anything to do with her. She declared that, after the woman had appeared reluctant to leave when ordered to do so, a threat of calling police induced the woman to leave.

When cross examined by Mr. Aberg regarding the difference in age between her and Schreiber, Mrs. Adams admitted being 49 years old. Schreiber is said to be 27.

"As far as my personal feelings toward Mr. Schreiber were concerned, age made no difference," Mrs. Adams testified.

Too Busy to Think

Schreiber kept her so busy that her mind became confused and she was not responsible for her actions during the week Oct. 29 to Nov. 5, she stated.

"Mr. Schreiber didn't give me time to think," she testified, "as he was there most of the time."

She also declared that she did not take his interest in her seriously until he introduced her to the Baraboo photographer as his "sweetheart," but that that action convinced her that he was serious.

"Did you ever tell him you were lonesome?" Mr. Aberg asked.

"Yes, I did," Mrs. Adams replied.

Mrs. Adams will resume the stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning when the case will be continued.

Codfish Omelet — Flake half a cup of boned codfish, put in cold water, let it come to a boil and simmer gently for five minutes. Drain. Make omelet as usual and when ready to cook fold in finely flaked codfish.

Caramel Custard—One pint milk, one cup brown sugar, three eggs, one teaspoon of vanilla, a little salt. Melt brown sugar until it forms a syrup, add milk, yolks of eggs, salt and vanilla. A tablespoon of cornstarch may be added if liked. Lastly folk in the whites of the eggs and bake until custard is set.

SUGGESTIONS

The stew made out of left over roast will go much farther if some little paste dumplings are boiled and served with it.

Ventilate the rooms in which you sleep and work.

A clean newspaper placed every day on the shelf of your gas stove where you put your dishes to heat saves many a disfiguring mark on your table linen.

ABOUT GAS

To reduce your gas bills see to it that:

Your gas burning appliances are kept clean.

Boil them occasionally in a strong solution made by dissolving washing soda or lye in water. Rinse thoroughly with clean water and dry before using again. Do not put your hands into the strong solution.

To prevent your oven linings from rusting out go over them occasionally with a good neutral oil, being careful not to use any oil with salt in it (such as bacon grease.)

1st Methodist Church Plans Improvements

$100,000 Project to Be Discussed at Meeting Here Soon

Whether or not the First Methodist Episcopal church, Wisconsin ave. and E. Dayton st., is to be remodeled at a cost of about $100,000 will be decided by the congregation of the church at a meeting to be called in the near future. Talk of remodeling the church has been common among members of the congregation during the past two years but it was not until recently that a group urged that steps be taken immediately to make decide dimprovements on the property.

V. W. Deist, a prominent member of the congregation said Saturday morning taht although the subject of remodeling the church has been discussed quite frequently in an informal manner, there has never been any official action on the matter.

"In all probability a meeting will be called within a short time when members of the congregation will be given an opportunity of expressing their views," Mr. Deist said.

The Methodist church is one of the oldest and largest in the city. J. M. Walters is the pastor.

OAKFIELD—The village board here voted to carry liability insurance for thirty members of the volunteer fire department.

Congressional Opposition Given As Cause For Coolidge Order Stopping Shenandoah's Flight

WASHINGTON — Congressional opposition to the expense involved has halted the north pole flight of the Shenandoah. Sensing this feeling in the capitol, President Coolidge has ordered a halt on all preparations, and accordingly orders have been issued to those in command of the airships.

The appropriation of $350,000 of the navy's budget was objected to by congressional leaders, who reported their objections to the president. An official spokesman at the White house announced Friday Mr. Coolidge had been told of this opposition and the opinion of Republican leaders that the appropriation would not pass. It was then decided not to waste any more money in preliminaries and to call the flight a closed book, for the present at least.

The exact reason, however, for what may mean the complete abandonment of the polar expedition is somewhat confused. Navy department officials are unable to understand how congress comes into the picture, because funds being spent on the expedition are drawn from the current appropriation, rather than that which congress is now considering. The money is already available to the credit of the navy department.

Olbrich to Speak at Vets' Bonus Meeting

WOMAN'S KINDLY FEATURES REFUTATION OF CHARGES SHE "BRANDED" GIRLS

Pauline and Anna Ferger and their stepmother, Mrs. Josephine Ferger.

Psycho-analists are unable to find in photos of the face of Mrs. Josephine Ferger, New York woman, evidences of the strain of cruelty charges, proved against her in court, indicate she possesses. She was found guilty of having branded her two step-daughters, Anna and Pauline Ferger, 9 and 6 years old, respectively, with a hot iron "because they told lies." She gave the court a faultless story of how the branding was "accidental." The scars were exhibited by the little girls.

A MILLION German children are rapidly approaching starvation.

Millions more are undernourished and without adequate clothing for warmth. Babies are without swaddling clothes. Many are placed in orphan asylums at birth. Conditions are not improving. Whoever is responsible. These children are innocent. The direct need is among the younger children, many born since the war.

This drive is part of the nation-wide effort headed by Maj. Gen. Allen, formerly commander of the American forces on the Rhine. In accepting the chairmanship of the campaign to feed 2,000,000 German children, Gen. Henry T. Allen has given authoritative sanction to a work both worthy and humane. No one knows this better than Gen. Allen, who has lived among these people and seen their struggles to ward off destitution and want.

All funds are spent in America, transportation of goods is furnished free by the North German Lloyd and American Quakers are in charge of the relief work.

Checks can be mailed to 'The Committee for the Relief of German Children, Room 804, Cantwell building."

500th Member Is Installed By The Commonwealth Lodge Here

Commonwealth lodge, No. 325, F. and A. M., conferred the degree of Master Mason on W. G. Fisher, the 500th member before 400 Masons at the Masonic temple Friday night. The degree work was done by the regular members of the lodge, of which C. E. Shaffer is master; H. C. Winter, senior warden; C. K. Swafford junior warden; R. C. Harrison, treasurer; O. B. Lovell, secretary; H. F. Garbutt, senior deacon; Gerhart Scott, junior deacon; H. A. Schneider, steward; M. E. Goodrich, steward; George W. Westerfield, tiler, and L. J. Ryan, electrician.

C. F. Lamb, grand master of the grand lodge of Wisconsin, gave the address of the evening. Other speakers were John H. Corscot, past grand master; C. E. Shaffer, master of the Commonwealth lodge; Rev. George E. Hunt, who was the first master mason raised in the lodge; Fred M. Wilcox, chairman of the industrial commission; Ralph Clark, the 100th member of the Commonwealth lodge, and W. G. Fisher.

The musical program of the evening was furnished by a quartette composed of Dr. W. L. Gillette, A. C. Schroeder, John F. Goetz and H. J. Rase. Donald McGill, Oregon, played the accompaniment and also sang a solo. Following the initiation ceremonies a dinner was served in the dining room of the First Evangelical church.

Hollister Was One of First Rexall Organizer

The 21st anniversary sale of the United States Drug Co. was brought to a close Saturday at the Krueger and Tandvig drug store, E. Main st., known as the Rexall store. Col. A. H. Hollister, predecessor of the present agents of the company, was one of the 40 organizers of the firm 21 years ago, being the only Wisconsin representative.

Mr. Hollister sold out his interests in the Madison store fifteen years ago. The main company now operates a chain of 10,000 stores in the United States. A. E. Krueger, member of the local firm, has returned from a convention held at Milwaukee the past week.

Kolb Asks Cooperation Between City and Farmer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Cooperation between town and rural communities to eliminate difference, antagonisms and controversies was advocated by Dr. J. H. The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism

A remarkable book written by an authority who has spent more than 20 years of his life in study, research and experimentation in this distressing disease. One of the many new and startling facts which this distinguished writer clearly sets forth and proves is that Uric Acid never did and never can cause Rheumatism!—That Uric Acid is a natural and necessary part of our blood—found even in every new-born babe—and that without it we could not live!

Every sufferer of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, Lumbago and associated disorders should read it. A limited edition is now being distributed free by the author and fortunately anyone sending name and address to H. P. Clearwater, Ph. D., 315-H, Water St., Hallowell, Maine, U. S. A., will receive a copy of this valuable book by return mail, postage paid and entirely free of charge. If not a sufferer yourself cut out this notice and help some afflicted friend by handing it to him. —Adv.

Plans For State-wide Dairy Pool Launched At Watertown Meeting

Nordman, Jones, Senator Schuman Outline Organization

WATERTOWN, Wis. (Special)—Plans for the formation of a state-wide dairy products cooperative marketing pool were made Friday afternoon at a meeting here. An interesting session is expected Saturday. Edward Nordman, commissioner of market, and John D. Jones Jr., commissioner of agriculture, are on the program Saturday.

The meeting was called by Sen. John C. Schuman of Watertown Farm Bureau, and came as a result of reaction to the system now said to be employed by the college of agriculture and the state department of marketing. His system, it is said, is resulting in many different sorts of contracts being drawn up for cooperative groups in various sections of the state.

The purpose of the meeting here is to perfect an organization and a contract which will unite all dairymen in Wisconsin.

Among the speakers Friday were Sen. Schuman, A. C. Stoxen, Bassett Wis., vice president of the Chicago Milk Marketing Co., Adolph Marks, Burlington, a director of that company and manager of the Burlington Farmers' condensary; and F. M. Ames, Brooklyn, ex-president of the Farmers' National Congress.

The problem involved is to perfect an organization big enough to handle the co-operative marketing of all dairy products in Wisconsin, beginning with the marketing of milk and eventually include both butter and cheese.

Sen. Schumann in his address pointed out the essetials of a successful cotract. The seven essentials, he said, are: 1.—A uniform contract. 2.—It must be long term, at least five years. 3.—Must apply to all dairy products. 4.—Must provide for purchase and sale on pooling basis. 5.—Must provide for adequate financing of the organization. 6.—Must provide for ownership, purchase and sale of real estate. 7.—Must make possible federating of locals into districts and finally into state organization.

A heated discussion relative to affiliating with some service organization such as the Farm Bureau and the Equity society, marked the session Friday night. A provision along this line may be worked out.

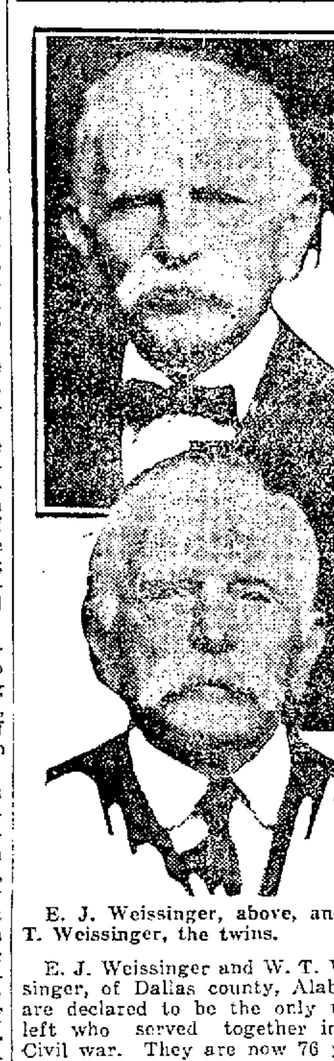

Prize Holstein Will Be Stock Show Feature

Walcowis Ollie Hijjaard, a prize Holstein bull owned by Craig, Post, Jones and Coon of Janesville has been secured as a headliner for the stock department of the Wisconsin International to be held Friday and Saturday of next week in the stock pavilion, George R. Sery '24, general manager, announced yesterday.

Brarsham Batchelder, Jr., champion milking shorthorn bull of the Chicago International is to be a stable mate of "Ollie" during the days of the show. The prize winner is owned by Chris Rye of Avalon and will be in the care of J. C. Nisbet.

The first prize aged Percheron mare is but one of the 14 ribbon winners shown by the university at Chicago which will be seen at the Wisconsin International.

War and Romance Failed To Part Alabama's Twins

E. J. Weissinger, above, and W. T. Weissinger, the twins.

E. J. Weissinger and W. T. Weissinger, of Dallas county, Alabama, are declared to be the only twins left who served together in the Civil war. They are now 76 years old and have always lived on the same plantation, which they operated jointly, although both were married, until influenced a few years ago by their families to make a division. They saw service at Mobile from 1864 to the close of the war. In all their lives, even during the Civil war, they have not been separated for as long as a whole day.

More Suits May Follow Court Ruling On Pool

Other suits on the Northern Wisconsin Cooperative Tobacco Pool are considered likely by officials as result of the modification of the supreme court's original ruling, contained in the denial for rehearing issued last Tuesday. The court, in effect, said that tobacco companies are not restrained from buying tobacco from members who have severed their relations with the pool.

In a denial that the change in ruling materially effects the previous finding, Emerson Ela, chief counsel for the pool, stated that any action that the pool deemed in violation of the court's injunction will be prosecuted immediately.

Snappy? Sure! And Brief, Too

CHICAGO—An application for an injunction to restrain another man from taking away his wife was today filed by John J. Dunn, official of a steel company. The other man is Carl Larson, a structural iron worker. Dunn alleges that Larson took Mrs. Dunn away last October and that she has since been posing as the wife of Larson until her arrest yesterday. Because of a 13 year old son, Dunn has no desire for a divorce he said. Former Judge Sheridan E. Fry, Dunn's attorney, believes that the legal venture if successful will provide a barrier against home wrecking.

Says Blaine Sought to Fill State Institutions With His Own Political Appointments

That Gov. Blaine sought to make conditions at state institutions so intolerable that the heads of the institutions would resign and the governor could then fill their places with political appointments is the charge made by George B. Harris, Waukesha, former member of the state board of control. The charges by Mr. Harris appear in an article written for The Waukesha Freeman.

Among other things, Mr. Harris says that the board of control bought an auto without securing the authority of the legislature as required by statute. Mr. Harris' statement follows:

"The answer to the board of control question is politics. Gov. Blaine was unable to dominate the policy of the board of control until the board was constituted entirely of his own appointees.

"Immediately thereafter the board developed an air of mystery; rules and regulations for the government of the board, that had been adopted and in force for many years were cast aside and all precedents ignored. Instructions were issued and enforced, that no one was to be admitted into the presence of the board of control when in session, either at the office of the board in the capitol building, at Madison, or at the institutions under the board's supervision.

"Provision was made many years ago, at all of the state institutions, for the accommodations and convenience of the members of the board of control, while visiting the institutions,—rooms well furnished, meals at the superintendent's table—affording an opportunity for the members of the board to familiarize themselves with the institution and its head, but the members of the board appointed by Gov. Blaine, having been informed by the governor that the superintendents of the institutions (when discussing the policy of the board in reference to the institutions at a meeting of the board of affairs,) were simply hired men.

"The members of the board refused to eat or sleep at the institutions. Instances are known where the board has called at institutions and ignored the superintendent, not even calling at the office, and invariably the members have driven miles for meals and lodging and returned to resume their business at the institutions. To be specific, the board, when at the prison, for the purpose of a parole session, invariably drove to Fond du Lac, eighteen miles for the noon-day meal, returning to the prison in the afternoon to resume their labors, a 36-mile drive for luncheon, at the expense of the state.

"The rooms for the accommodation of the members of the board, at the institutions, have not been used by Gov. Blaine's board of control, the members apparently preferring to travel miles distant for lodging, at the expense of the state. Former members of the board of control when at the prison for a day's or two-days' session, ate their meals at the warden's residence, outside the prison walls and also lodged at the warden's residence, and similar accommodations were accepted by former members of the board, at the various other institutions.

"Gov. Blaine's board of control has been provided with an automobile, a Buick sedan, without legislative authority which is required by statute, the possession of which may account for the remission of their labors.

"The Governor intended, through the board he was able to dominate, to bring about conditions at the state institutions, so unbearable the heads of the several institutions would resign, and then he would appoint political friends to fill the places vacated voluntarily, for which, re reasoned, the public would not censure him, since resignations were the act of the individual resigning, and appointments would have to be made under the law, by the board of control, therefore he as governor, would have his desire accomplished, yet under cover. The public, however, particularly the Conference of Social Workers, were not in any manner hoodwinked, and open criticism of the resignations secured under the method designated, checked the governor and the board, from time to time."

Students Take Mental Tests Before Wedding

BERKELEY—Following the the "psychological wedding," Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. McKenzie, University of California students, were on their honeymoon today. Mrs. McKenzie is a senior in psychology. McKenzie is a medical student. They decided to have a psychological test to determine whether they were mentally harmonious. Dr. Jau Don Ball asked 244 questions. There was but one jarring note—music. Dr. Ball said this would not cause disharmony in their wedded bliss.

Theodore Roberts Grand Old Man Of Films, Dying

Theodore Roberts

PITTSBURGH —All hope for the life of Theodore Roberts, the famous actor and film star, has been abandoned, and physicians believe his death is only a matter of hours.

A sinking spell, which began early Friday, was regarded as the beginning of the end.

Mr. Roberts was stricken several weeks ago while filling a vaudeville engagement at a Pittsburgh theater. Since that time he has been confined to his hotel where his wife has remained a constant companion at his bedside.

'Cy' Westbury Is Pardoned By Governor

fellow, and it can be said that all who knew him rather liked him, and was not a typical criminal bandit or highwayman.

Paroled To His Brother

"He has a wife and two very young children depending on the public for support. That Westbury had led a life indicating rather an indifference to rights of others can not be disputed, but he has now served nearly two years and it is my opinion that his imprisonment has brought him to a condition of mind that will lead him to a better life if given a chance.

"His brother has made arrangements for his employment and custody. Therefore he is conditionally paroled.

"Conditions are: that he accept the employment secured for him by his brother, Eugene Westbury, become industrious and live with and support his wife and children in a respectable manner, and otherwise conduct himself in a manner compatible with good citizenship; and upon the further condition that his brother, Eugene, be and is hereby appointed his legal custodian.

Other Pardons Granted

A summary of other cases with the action taken by the governor follows:

Jean A. Revelt, Milwaukee county, abandonment, two years; conditional parole granted. Nick Lacata, Milwaukee county, larceny, four years, sentence commuted. Martin Karasz, Clark county, liquor laws, one year, commuted to expire Feb. 15. Herbert E. Craft, Chippewa county, manufacturing intoxicating liquor, sixty days, sentence commuted to Feb. 15. Leland Felch, Monroe county, burglary, three years, conditional pardon granted. Harold Hackney, Milwaukee county, violation of probation, probationary status restored. Emma Borische, Milwaukee county, larceny and violation or parole; parole status restored.

Paul Krause, Outgamie county, murder, life; denied, eligible for parole in one year. John Ruhland, Sauk county, possessing stills and mash, six months; application held open. Carl Burger, Sheboygan county, criminal assault, eighteen months; denied.

Court Hears Emergency Board Fight

Corrigan Represents The Secretary of State and Olbrich Normal Board

The controversy over emergency funds for state educational institutions was before the supreme court today on arguments presented on the mandamus application of the state board of normal regents against Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman.

Constitutionality of the emergency act was severely attacked by Walter D. Corrigan, Milwaukee, special counsel for Secretary Zimmerman. Mr. Corrigan claimed that the emergency act is unconstitutional because the amounts appropriated under it are unlimited and therefore there is no appropriation and because it is an attempt to delegate legislative power. Even though the act should be held unconstitutional, he declared the present emergency appropriations are invalid because the present situation is not an emergency, because all three members must approve the funds and because the funds are limited to operation moneys. The present situation, Mr. Corrigan said, was deliberately created by the state legislature and was forseen by the legislative body.

Constitutionality of the emergency law was supported by M. B. Olbrich, Madison, special attorney for the normal board, who declared that similar laws in other states have been upheld, that it does not attempt to delegate legislative power and that the act made appropriations "to become available upon subsequent determination of fact that the money is needed." He further contended that the three state officials constitute a "board" and that a majority vote is sufficient to make moneys available.

The emergency suit involves approximately $150,000 voted to the state university and normal schools by Governor Blaine and State Treasurer Levitan and opposed by Secretary Zimmerman. The suit was brought on an item of $158 for the Whitewater normal school for textbooks. The court is expected to enter a special decision in the case within a week or ten days.

Arguing the question of validity of the emergency act, Mr. Corrigan stated that no specific sum is set out in the act, no maximum sum is designated and that all of the moneys in the state treasury would be available for appropriation by the three state officials. He further declared that the act provides no test by which the emergency needs can be determined.

It was further argued by Secretary Zimmerman's attorney that a mandamus action against the secretary of state will not lie in the present situation. He contended that if the act is constitutional, the secretary of state would exercise a judicial power as a state official in voting for or against the funds and in this case and he could not be compelled to vote the funds or to set up the amounts voted by the governor and state treasurer.

Merchants Should Send Bills for Prom Service

Madison merchants are urged to present their bills for services rendered in connection with the Junior prom as soon as possible. They should be sent to Clifford S. Nolte, 622 Mendota court.

Humorous songs, sleight-of-hand performances, violin and Hawaiian guitar solos and a talk, "My Experiences in the Argonne," were features of the program presented last night by the Agric Triangle, at Pumpkin Hollow school on highway No. 10, seven miles north of Madison.

His Heart Aches For The Love Of A Mother Spirit

A boy, straight as a soldier, with blue eyes that look straight at you, wants a home.

When a baby he was deserted by his parents. He was taken into a boarding house by an agent of the Home Finding society. The boy was adopted by the lady that offered him temporary shelter, but now she has grown old and is too poor and feeble to care for him. The Children's Home society has taken charge of the case and the boy is in the home of the Rev. Richardson, 10 Breese Terrace, waiting for some kind mother to give him the care and love that he is deserving.

Big Developments In Oil Scandal

WASHINGTON — Developments in the oil scandal quiz Friday were:

ADJOURNS TO FEB. 25.

Hopelessly confused by the maze of rumors and "near evidence" that high officials of the government participated in a huge fund distributed here for corrupt purposes, the committee late today voted to recess until Monday, Feb. 25. The interval will be utilized to formulate a plan ot procedure by which all persons involved in the conspiracy may be brought to justice. Another reason given was that all members of the committee are "fagged out."

ROBERTS IS ATTACKED.

A report that Owen J. Roberts, Philadelphia, appointed special attorney Friday in the oil investigation, to succeed Silas Strawn, criticized the gasoline probe conducted by Senator La Follette, Wis., in a speech in New York city in February of last year, was brought to the attention of members of the senate public lands committee Friday night. Mr. Roberts is reported to have criticized the investigation conducted by Mr. La Follette as "mere propoganda" for nationalization of oil interests.

KAHN WIRES DENIAL.

Otto Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, bankers, whose testimony was desired concerning rumors prevalent in New York about the million dollar slush fund, sent a telegram to the committee in which he said. "I am amazed and scandalized at my name being mentioned in connection with any such rumor."

TO CALL GRAND JURY.

A special federal grand jury will be impaneled in the District of Columbia immediately to inquire into the criminal aspects of the case and not to obtain under aoth evidence not brought out before the senate committee. The president has directed that special counsel have at their disposal members of the treasury secret service as special investigators.

CHRISTIANIA—The premier has decided to propose the establishment of prohibition in Norway.

LaFollette In Demand For Alaska Probe

Colorado river is to be set to work in the southwest in opposition to the desire of private interests to exploit these projects, has raised a storm in both senate and house.

Billions of dollars are said to be involved, exceeding all of the oil interests in the country.

The dismissal of Arthur Powell Davis as head of the reclamation service by Secty. Work, charged by his friends as due to the opposition of private power interests in the west, revolves about the conflicts developing in both houses. The discharge of a distinguished engineer and the substitution of a political appointee without engineering experience, promises to become an outstanding issue in the next few weeks of congress.

Charges that private hydro-electric power interests are throttling attempts to have the government develop the power projects of the west are being made in both senate and house.

The boulder dam project was being discussed by the committee with City Engineer Mulhollan, of Los Angeles, on the stand. The charges and counter charges of private interests blocking the government project became so spirited that Rep. Baker, Dem. Calif., moved that Harry Chandler of The Los Angeles Times, and representatives of the power interests, be subpoenaed and sworn to tell what the situation affecting power interests really is in their section.

Members of the committee said the money involved in the undeveloped power of this section amounted to many times the worth of all the oil in southern California, possibly all within the U. S.

Death of Congressman Laid to Bad Ventilation

WASHINGTON—A serious investigation of the assertion that the poor ventilation of the capitol is responsible for the high mortality rate among congressmen will be undertaken by the house rules committee. The formal basis for the session is the resolution recently introduced by Representative Miles C. Allgood of Alabama, who points out the "breaking down of such giants of health and endurance as the late Champ Clark, Claude Kitchen and James R. Mann, who were much upon the floor."

Favor Trade Treaties With France, Spitzbergen

WASHINGTON—Treaties with France and Spitzenberg, guaranteeing American trade routes, were favorably reported by the senate foreign relations committee today. The French treaties related to mandated territory in Pogoland and Cameroons in Africa. The same action was also taken on a naturalization treaty with Bulgaria.

Famous Robber Raisuli Submits to Operation

MELILLA, Morocco—Superstitiously refusing modern medical treatment for weeks, Raisuli, the famous Moroccan bandit, today submitted to an operation. It was performed by Dr. Zaldivar. Raisuli was grateful for the relief.

TOLEDO—Five secret indictments in connection with the $1,000,000 postoffice robbery in 1921 were returned in federal court here today.

You Can Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.—Adv.

Tiny Tots' Novel Toy Symphony Orchestra

Toy Orchestra Wins Ovation For Concert

Little Musicians Display Marked Ability at High School

Hats off to the Tiny Tot's Toy Symphony orchestra! It surely merited the hearty applause of the student body of Central high school on Wednesday morning when it rendered a program of three selections in the school auditorium. The numbers played were: "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," "Till We Meet Again" and "On Wisconsin." The orchestra will perform again this morning before the Teachers' convention.

And what is the origin of this successful band of juvenile performers?

About a year ago, Mrs. Alice Rood, second grade teacher in the Harvey school, conceived the idea of teaching rhythm by a practical method. Shes tarted the Tiny Tots' orchestra, and the interest was so keen, all the members practiced so faithfully, that the present well organized group grew up into a finished product.

Stage fright? Not a trace of it in the 35 confident and capable musicians who play a varied assortment of instruments. They look particularly well, too, in their militaristic boy outfits of white trousers with blue stripes, and little blue jackets to complete the harmony in dress as well as in tone. Bernice Conohan, Miss Leader, swings her baton to perfection, and is quite the talented drum-major in her uniform of white and gold.

Here is the orchestra's personnel:

Leader: Bernice Conohan.

Vocophones: Darlene Barhorst, Lawrence Strochein, Jane' Long, Grace Hein.

Drums: Edgar Lochner, Arnold Kujath.

Cymbals: John Otto.

Clappers: George Barett, Glen Turner.

Birds: John Reynolds, Chester Stephanider, Charles Schoenlein, Evelyn Mohr, Marie Hannes, Harold Minter, Nancy Meade.

Triangle: Marjorie Swenson.

Bells: Caryl Grinde, John Heinmar.

Xylophones: Gladys McQueen, Ruby Moen, Virginia Gehrke, Francis Holton, George Giocovitch, Arthur Jordon, Arlene Parks.

Tambourines: June Hansen, Velma Hughes, Marion Conway, Gertrude Otto, Lucile Reque, Mildred Soule.

"We Like It" Is Verdict On Art Appreciation Contest

Co-ed Would Be Boy; Looks It!

Louise Eighmie.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Miss Louise Eighmie is determined to be a boy.

Louise, who is 17, and a student in the pre-medical course of the Liberal Arts College of Syracuse University, startled university authorities by appearing with her hair clipped close, shaved in the back and parted just like a regular fellow's. And while the co-eds are supposed to be forbidden knickers except when taking part in athletic contests, she persists in affecting attire of stern and mannish lines.

Miss Eighmie planned to finish her education at Yale, masquerading as a boy, but her mother punctured the romantic dream.

Louise hopes to follow the course of the late Dr. Mary Walker and obtain the permission of congress to permanently adopt male apparel.

Clever With Paper

Draper Second Grade Makes Little Red Riding Hood Figures

Little Red Riding Hood and the Three Bears have taken form on paper in the second grade Draper Art class. The paper is torn to make the various figures and then it is mounted and ready for exhibition. Tuesday the second grade held its patriotic program and on Thursday they had a Valentine box.

Examples of free hand drawing, cut-outs, posters and A. B. C. books were exhibited Friday and Saturday by the first graders at the teacher's convention.

Lantern slides depicting the life of Lincoln were shown Tuesday in the third grade room. Drawings of the log cabin, of Lincoln splitting wood and of Lincoln studying before the fire were made by the children.

A story in the third grade reader has been illustrated on the sand table by means of modeling Eskimos, their dogs, reindeers and igloos. Each pupil chose the object he wished to model.

2. Young Woman by Thayer, now in the New York-Metropolitan.

"We like it!" is the unanimous feeling of all the students in the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grades in the Madison schools, who are making a study of the pictures in the Art Appreciation Contest series being conducted under the direction of Miss Irene Buck, director of art in the city.

One young man from Washington school thinks that: "This is the best way we ever studied pictures. Most fellers don't care a whole lot for such things generally, but when we have slides and everything right with it, you can't help but like the idea."

A little lady at Longfellow in 5B likes the contest so well that she hopes to have something just like it every year, she says: "Planning for our scrapbook, and doing our best to make it one of the best ones is a lot of fun. Everybody in the whole class wants to help along, too."

At St. Raphael's much enthusiasm has been shown in the study. Several of the children told how interested their fathers and mothers were in the plan, too. Two little girls in particular explained that they were making separate scrapbooks outside of school.

All the teachers agree that this contest is an ideal way of gaining the attention and interest of all the students.

National Essay Contest For High School Students

A national prize essay contest in which any high school boy or girl may compete, is being held for the first time this year under the auspices of the American Chemical society.

Dr. H. J. Mathews, director of the course in chemistry, is the state chairman. The prize will be the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Garvan, New York city.

All essays must be in the hands of the state committee by April 1. Each committee will select the six best essays from the state, the winners to receive $20 each in gold and honorable mention. The national committee will select the six best essays from the state winners and the six national winners will be awarded four year scholarships at Yale university or Vassar college, each scholarship carrying tuition and $500 a year.

The list of topics from which the students must select include "The Relation of Chemistry to Health and Disease," "The Relation of Chemistry to the Enrichment of Life," "The Relation of Chemistry to Agriculture and Forestry," "The Relation of Chemistry to National Defense," "The Relation of Chemistry to the Home," and "The Relation of Chemistry to the Development of the Industries and the Resources of Your State."

$50 S. G. A. Loan Fund is Available For Student Use

The S. G. A. loan fund now has $50 available for the use of students during this semester, Miss Vingie, secretary of the organization stated.

"We originally started with $300 but if its popularity increases, we expect to increase the amount next fall," said Miss Vingie.

The fund, legislated by S. G. A. board is at the disposal of girls whose worthiness and need is considered, rather than exceptional scholarship, although their grades must be passing.

Vocational Home Ecs Hostesses at Tea

Students in the home economics department of the Vocational school were hostesses at an informal tea from 3 to 5 yesterday afternoon, in honor of the Southern Central Wisconsin Home Economics club, meeting here during the convention.

Fifty guests were served by Charlotte Sefland, Carol Moore, Nora Peterson, and Helen Hermanson, all home economics students. Gertrude Casey, Miss Edith G. Fauerbach, temporary head of the department during the illness of Miss Gertrude Salisbury, extended the invitation.

The school apartment on the second floor of the reception room was decorated with pink candles, flowers and Valentine displays. Heart-shaped cookies and sandwiches were passed.

Emerson Festival

Third Graders Give Interesting Program On Lincoln's Birthday

Emerson third graders celebrated Lincoln's birthday Tuesday with a patriotic program, which opened with a class salute to the flag.

Richard Michaelis, Ralph Cox, Elmer Sjostrem, La Pine Meadowbrook, Neil Nelson, Mildred Copus and Marion Meiller told about Lincoln and his dog. Lincoln of long ago was portrayed by George Parish, Harold Brayton, Vernon Hoenk, Roy Mapes and Fern Harbort.

Hazel Copus, Dean France, Opal Saeger and Agnes Hebert depicted the episode of making the train. Harriet Johnson and Allen Harborc recited a poem, and Melba Imhoff, Elinore Stang and Harriet Gilbertson gave "Old Abe."

Students Still Have Chance to Change Programs

Students may still make changes in their programs, it was announced yesterday, but in order to do so it is necessary for them to consult their advisors who will assist them in making out drop cards for the subjects they wish to discontinue, and pick up cards for the new courses. These cards must then be signed either by Dean Sellery or Dean Roe. The time limit on program changes has not yet been set.

Prof. Colbert to Speak on Negro Problem Sunday

That the "jim-crow" car is a necessary device to prevent race friction and desirable as such is the opinion of Prof. R. J. Colbert of the sociology department who will speak on the negro question before the Wesley Forum at 7 o'clock Sunday evening, at the Wesley Foundation.

"The Negro question is no longer a southern problem but a national problem of great significance." is the contention of Professor Colbert, who has studied this field of the race question.

RELIEVED OF CONSTIPATION

Constipation is one of the most common ailments, and one most likely to be neglected. Certain waste matters must be eliminated from the system daily, and if the bowels cannot accomplish this alone they should have assistance through a good laxative. FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS are mild in action, pleasant and easy to take and promptly relieve constipation and its effects. Mrs. Ellen Bethel, R. F. D. 3, Clanton, Ala., writes: "FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS are the best medicine I have ever used for constipation and sluggish liver."—Adv.

Woman's Aid In Art World Urged By Taft

Famed Sculptor Describes Work Done By Chicago Club

"Appreciation is even more important than creation, and that's where tht woman's clubs come in," said Lorado Taft, in reviewing "Some of My Enthusiasms" Friday afternoon before the Woman's club.

Miss Irene Buck, chairman of the arc department of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' association, introduced the speaker.

Mr. Taft cited the work of a Chicago Woman's club which campaigned for the restoration of the Fine Arts building in Jackson park as the sort of thing for which such organizations should exist. The half-million dollar fund voted last week by the South Park commissioners for that rebuilding he regards as the result of a thousand dollar fund raised by the woman's club to restore one panel of the shabby World's Fair building. He hopes that the building will be used to house a collection of plaster casts of great works of art and of the shrines of great artists.

"I've annexed the entire state of Illinois. It's my parish. Bringing harmonious work into every community is my mission. Interesting the community in itself is the important thing," said Mr. Taft.

S. K. Ratcliffe to Be Speaker Next Saturday

Has Intimate Knowledge of Personalities In England

The eminent English journalist, S. K. Ratcliffe, special correspondent for the Manchester Guardian, whose address before the Civics club on Saturday noon, Feb. 23, at the Woman's building, is a source of great interest to Madison club women, has made a remarkable record on the American platform as a lecturer on literature as well as current public affairs.

Mrs. Carl H. Tenney, chairman of the executive committee of the club, said this morning, "Mr. Ratcliffe speaks with an intimate knowledge of movements and personalities in England.

That he has the latest information about the new House of Commons, the new government, and the leaders in their new positions and emerging politics, was further testified by Mrs. Tenney.

ENTERTAIN FOR MISS SHUMWAY

A number of showers are being given this week-end honoring Miss Emelia Shumway, whose marriage to Andrew Peterson of this city will occur next month. Last evening the Rebecca sisters of Stoughton gave a masked ball in their club house honoring Miss Shumway, who in the course of the evening, was presented with a set of hand painted china. Mrs. Vern Curby, also of Stoughton, entertained at her home for Mrs. Shumway, her guests being sixteen members of a social club organized several years ago. They presented the honor guest with an oil painting. A series of miscellaneous showers will be given for Miss Shumway next Monday and Tuesday afternoon and evenings for which Mrs. M. B. Johnson, 1312 Jenifer street will be hostess. Sixteen guests have been invited for Monday and a program of readings and music will precede an informal luncheon. A similar program will be given Tuesday when twenty guests will be present.

When Josef Lhevinne gave a concert in Madison recently his program was different from that which is usually given by a great artist. The number had popular appeal, they had melody, they were the kind that were familiar to that great class who travel the middle of the road. Every one of us has seen the stir that wafts over an audience when an artist suddenly announces that he will sing "The Last Rose of Summer." The sigh of content and general relaxation as they settle back almost says out loud "I know this one!" "Like one reading a book in a foreign language one comes suddenly upon a page written in the tongue of one's childhood."

To completely ignore the wish of 95 per cent of the audience as do many artists, by devoting a whole evening to works known only by the few is absurd. To the listener it is about as much pleasure as going to a reception where every person present is a stranger.

Catholic Women To Hear Talk On Art

Prof. Grant Showerman will talk on the "American Art Academy in Rome" at the afternoon meeting of the Catholic Women's club Monday at 3 p. m. in the Woman's building.

The program also includes a piano solo by Mrs. T. F. Keefe, who will play "Kamenoi—Ostrow," by Rubenstein and "Tierrot," by Chaminale. Mrs. Arthur Collentine will present a vocal solo, "Yesterday and Today," by Charles Gilbert Stroff: she will be accompanied by Miss Olive Endries.

The program is in charge of the art department this week, of which Mrs. G. J. Callahan is chairman. Mrs. G. J. Lillesand has charge of the music.

The evening program will be given at 7:45 p. m. Monday at the Woman's building. Miss Amy Regan and Miss Mary Heim have charge of this phase of the program.

* * *

The dinner group will meet at 6 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus clubhouse. The speaker for the evening is Mrs. Pearl R. Phillips, Dane County Probation officer. She will speak on "Development of Probation and Juvenile Court Work in Madison."

HOTEL PFISTER PARTY

The third annual dinner and bridge party at the combined colonial patriotic societies, to which all Madison members are invited will be given February 22, Washington's birthday, at the Hotel Pfister in Milwaukee under the auspices of the Milwaukee branch.

Dinner will be served at 7 p. m. and will be followed by dancing and bridge. Local members are referred to Mrs. William MacLaren, Hotel Pfister, for further information, or to Mrs. Mabel Ferguson, 256 Lyon place, Milwaukee, for registration.

The nine organizations arranging the celebration are: Daughters of Founders and Patriots, Mayflower Descendants; Descendants of Colonial Governors, Colonial Dames, Sons of Colonial Wars, Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the United States Daughters of 1812.

* * *

NATIONAL CLUBHOUSE BENEFIT

Three events for the benefit of the national clubhouse of the College Woman's club at Washington, D. C. have been planned by the local organization for February 22. Bridge will be played in the afternoon at a charge of fifty cents or $1.50 including supper. Reservations are limited to fifty tables and are due Tuesday, February 19.

Tea will be served during the entire afternoon at a small charge and supper will be served at 6:30.

The present clubhouse is only tentative and plans for improvements are being promoted in all branches of the A. A. U. W. The clubhouse is a center of information, social service work, for extending local, national and international hospitality, and for business, consisting of co-operation with other organizations. The clubhouse, if possible, will accomodate all members of any branch of the organization who wishes to make it her headquarters while in Washington.

GIVE BIRTHDAY SURPRISES

Mrs. C. F. Ludwig, 605 Sommers, avenue and Mrs. John Adams, Jr., 1906 East Mifflin street were honored by the members of their social club who surprised them on their birthday anniversaries. Early in the work an afternoon bunco party was arranged at the Ladwig home, first and second favors being won by Mrs. John Adams and Mrs. H. Vogel, and the consolation prize by Mrs. Carl Nelson. After the games, luncheon was served in the dining-room, which was made especially attractive with valentine symbols and colors. A gold vanity case was presented to Mrs. Ladwig. The entertainment for Mrs. Adams occurred last evening after the bunco games. Mrs. Adams was presented with a set of alumnum ware. In the club are Mme. Edward Hockett, H. J. Alvin, Carl Nelson, E. Sanders, H. Vogel, Charles and John Adams, Oswell Pressentine, Joseph Scovill, M. Day and Edward Jones.

Women Voters to Discuss Needs of Madison In Education Field

THE program at the regular meeting of the Dane County League of Women Voters, to be held on Tuesday, in Esther Vilas hall at 2 o'clock, will be devoted to the subject of "Educational Needs in Madison". Three prominent men have been secured to speak on this general subject. Prof. E. B. Skinner, president of the Board of Education, will speak on the "Material Side of the School System in a Rapidly Growing City". Professor Skinner will develop his subject along the lines of needs in buildings and equipment.

T. W. Gosling, superintendent of schools will speak on "A Forward-looking Program for Madison Schools." His talk will be devoted almost entirely to the educational side of the subject.

A discussion of the Sterling-Reed education bill now before Congress, will be presented by Prof. J. G. Fowlkes, assistant professor education at the university. This bill is an effort to get a Federal Department of Education, the head of which is to be a member of the President's cabinet. The purpose of this department is to eliminate local politics in the direction of public schools. Members of the Parent-Teachers council, and officers of the Parent-Teachers association, from both the public and parochial schools are particularly asked to attend.

Mrs. A. P. Puelicher is in charge of the social hour. During the meeting, Mrs. Cockrell will give two organ numbers.

On Thursday, the executive board of the Dane county league is invited to mee the state board of the league at a luncheon at the College club at 1 o'clock. About forty reservations for the luncheon have already been made.

Rowena Brown Is Honored At Valentine Event

Is First of Pre-Nuptial Affairs; To Wed Next Friday

The first of the pre-nuptial affairs to be given for Miss Rowena Ruth Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Brown, 223 Clifford court whose marriage to H. Eugene Alleman, Jr., will take place on Friday, February 22, was a Valentine bridge and shower given by Miss Alethea Smith, sorority sister in Alpha Xi Delta, at her home, 1148 Spaight street. Decorations, refreshments, and tallies carried out the Valentine idea. Sixteen guests were present.

Miss Katherine Kernan entertained on Saturday noon at a luncheon and bridge, in honor of Miss Brown at her home, 221 Clifford court.

A dinner will be given in honor of Miss Brown by Miss Beatrice Walker, on Tuesday evening, and Miss Margaret Roess will give a luncheon on Thursday at the Old Fashioned tea room. On Wednesday evening Miss Brown, and Mr. Alleman will entertain a few of their friends.

Miss Brown finished at the University of Wisconsin in 1923, and was a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority and Orchesus. Miss Brown was active in journalistic work in the university, and was a member of the Badger, Cardinal, and Octopus staffs. Since leaving the University, Miss Brown has been social editor at The Capital Times.

Mr. Alleman is of Indianapolis, Ind., and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Eugene Alleman, Sr., Warsaw, Ind. He is now Statehouse editor of the Indianapolis Times, and graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1923. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity. He was an active member of Press club and cardinal staff.

Norse Litature Is Subject of Lecture Recital Next Thursday

Mrs. Clara Falk Murphy Speaker at Woman's Club Meeting

An affair of unusual interest for members of the music department of Woman's club and their guests is the Norse lecture recital which Mrs. Clara Falk Murphy will give on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Woman's building.

Though American by birth, Mrs. Murphy is the daughter of Norwegian parents, and has both inherited and fostered tastes for the art and literature of the Norse people. During a visit in Norway, she became familiar with the music as interpreted by native musicians. The influence of the land, with its bold and majestic fjelds and fjords, has penetrated the lives of the people. The daring of the early Vikings and the stories of adventure and myth are portrayed in the quaint, weird old melodies.

Mrs. Clara Falk Murphy
—De Longe Photo

Mrs. Murphy will be assisted by two pupils from her studio, Mrs. M. Teige, and Miss Frances Bennett, who will sing "En Svanne," "Princessin," "Der Skreg en Fugl," and the "Mountain Echo Song." Mrs. Murphy will play Grieg's "Fjeldslaat" and "Brudefolget," and will sing a number of old folk ditties. A genuine Hardanger violin will be used by Mrs. Quisling in playing the old melodies which she learned by ear in Norway. Three choral numbers, "Iceland," "Bridal Party," and the "National Song," which Mrs. Murphy has arranged for women's voices, will be sung by Misses Frances Bennett and Hazel Hvam, and Mesdames H. A. Ring, John Corscot Jr., W. A Marling, C. P. Conrad, Edward Law, C. W. Haswell, J. C. Elsom, H. H. Ratcliff, and R. M. Jenkins. Norwegian costumes and decorations will lend characteristic color to the whole.

The music department will have as its guests for the afternoon the members of the Cecelia, Euterpe, and Correlative Arts clubs, and the music department of the Catholic Woman's club. Members of the Woman's club and their friends are invited.

Norma Talmadge, Tom Mix and Colleen Moore to Star In Coming Film Features

Vodvil And Screen Hits Coming To City

AT THE PARKWAY.

NORMA TALMADGE, as a cherry-cheeked Ouled Nail dancer, has quite the most bewitching role of her career. For weeks she has practiced the dances of the northern Sahara under skilled Arabian instruction. She will be seen in this role in her latest picture, "The Song of Love," at the Parkway theater on Sunday matinee.

"The Song of Love" was directed by Chester Franklin. Norma has the role of an Ouled Nail dancing girl.

Joseph Schildkraut, idol of feminine theatergoers of two continents heads the supporting cast, which also includes Arthur Edmund Carewe, the "Svengali" of "Trilby;" Maude Wayne, Hector V. Sarno, Laurence Wheat, Mario Carillo, James Cooley, Albert Prisco and Earl Schenck.

AT THE MADISON.

"A very pleasing picture." That is what every one who has seen "Maytime" at the Madison theater, says. It is even more than pleasing, it is a wonderfully entertaining picture as well as being well cast. Ethel Shannon and Harrison Ford play the leading roles. Ethel Shannon plays the role of the heroine, elderly lady and the grandchild. Here is a three-ply part in which Miss Shannon does a wonderful piece of work. A two reel comedy "Inbad the Sailor" will force you to laugh.

Coming Sunday, "White Tiger," with Priscilla Dean, Wallace Berry, Ray Griffith and Matt Moore. "White Tiger" is a "Crook" story and is a sensation. Phiscilla Dean plays a Lady Raffles role that is said to be even better than the characterization she gave in "Outside the Law."

AT THE MAJESTIC.

If a woman was deeply in love with you and she was not the type you worshipped and finally you found your ideal girl, married her and then found that she was the daughter of—but that would be telling you too much of the story. If on the eve of your marriage you received a letter telling you circumstances you never dreamed of and the result was that your bride remained "Wife in Name Only" what would you do? "Wife in Name Only," now at the Majestic, is the screen version of Bertha M. Clay's popular novel and it is intensely dramatic. "Topics," "News" and "Fables" complete this interesting program.

Coming Sunday, Tom Mix in "Ladies to Board." Here is a real picture that will keep you in stitches of laughter. Tom Mix as the owner of an old woman's home, is a scream and as an uninvited guest at a wild party he is the original sheik.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

For the new show at the Orpheum starting tomorrow matinee use for the feature act Miss Trixie Friganza, who is appearing in "Her 1924 Bag 'o Trix." Miss Friganza is known wherever good vaudeville is shown and in her former appearances here has received a royal welcome. She is without a doubt one of the cleverest female singers on the vaudeville stage. She does not leave the stage during the entire act as her costumes are merely shed and the audiences are surprised at the number of beautiful gowns that she wears at the same time.

Dan Casler and the Beasley Twins call themselves the "Melody Three." They are three musicians and uplift music to a concert scale. The Kill Kare Kouple, John and Winnie Hennings, will be heard in eccentrical music, song, talk and dance. They are instrumental humorists. Peck and Harris introduce very pleasing voices and put them to very good use. Bee Ho Grey and Co. give some lariat throwing stunts that have never been seen outside of the bodeos. Mr. Grey is the world's champion lariat thrower having won the championship seven times. His small company are talented knife throwers. One other big act concludes the performance. For the last times today, the most elaborate production ever presented in this city, George Choos Fables of 1924.

AT THE STRAND.

Starting Sunday the feature attraction will be "Tarough the Dark," with Colleen Moore, a crook picture that should find an appeal among all classes of film fans. That love levels all ranks and that the straight path is the only one to follow are the twin theses of the story. The film is replete with action and moves swiftly from the interior of the famous San Quentin prison through the hunts and dives of Frisco's Chinatown. The story is threaded with a delightful romance —that of "Boston Blackie" and the pretty daughter of Mother McGinn whose love plays a vital part in the transformation of the slickest crook in the world.

Last times today, Richard Barthelmess in "21."

ED WYNN COMING.

Those of the ood old general public who feel their existence on this terrestrial sphere is too dourly devoid of hilarity can take heart, for it is announced that A. L. Erlanger in association with B. C. Whitney, will present Ed Wynn, "The Perfect Fool," in a new musical delight at the Parkway theater for two nights, commencing Friday night, Feb. 29, and Saturday, March 1, with a matinee on Saturday. The new production will be distinctively Ed Wynn from beginning to end, for the star not only wrote the lyrics and music but he also thought up the jokes, picked out the performers, and arranged the order of the scenes, of which there will be 19 divided into two acts.

Sliced Oranges— Select an orange for each person, pour boiling water over it, let stand a minute, then peel immediately. The boiling water loosens the white pith so that it will come away easily with the orange rind. Slice thinly and arrange on a plate overlapping each other. If desired a small heap of powdered sugar may be piled in center of plate, or the oranges sprinkled with shredded cocoanut.

Orange Mint Cocktail — Take three juicy oranges, one tablespoon finely chopped mint, three tablespoons sugar, six maraschino cherries, two tablespoon cherry juice. Remove all skin and pith and divide oranges into sections. Add sugar and maraschino cherry juice and set aside to chill for one hour. Chop mint finely, mix with oranges, pile high in small glasses and place a cherry on top of each.

Council Finance Body to Hold Meeting Monday

A meeting of the common council finance committee will be called Monday night at 7:30.

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overfat carry a burden they can not conceal. There is one sure way to reduce your weight surely and quickly. The harmless Marmola Prescription, which changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy, helps the general health and digestion, permits you to eat substantial food, and leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. Each tablet contains an exact dose of the same harmless ingredients that made the original prescription capable of reducing the overfat body steadily and easily without the slightest ill effects. Take but one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the bodily health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets or send one dollar to the Marmola Company, 4613 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., the price the world over, and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to slimness and happiness.—Adv.

possibilities of a reassuring sort for this dear old western European world. There may be biological forces at work, "a new race, the fate of which, to survive or to die, we know not." Or this great new world may presently fall into social disorder and division—insignificance.

This is the essence of Belloc's argument to estrange Americans and Europeans, particularly Americans and British. Is it sound? So far as differences go, one concedes the vividness of Belloc's vision. (His opening accounts of the different qualities of American and European scenery and byways is an amazing good piece of writing.) But do Americans present either a new race or even a new culture? I deny both these propositions. They are racially still largely an unfused mixture of Europeans; the novel features of their social and cultural life merely mark a new phase into which British and European and Slav cultures are all following America. That is to say, I do not believe America is diverging upon a line of her own, but is simply ahead along the path that the other great constituents in the coming world community must all presently follow.

TRANSPLANTED ALIENS

Let us state the case briefly and simply. Nobody who knows anything of the facts of the case regards the citizens of the U. S. as a sort of transplanted Britisher, but with the exception of certain colored millions, certain Red Indian survivals, they are manifestly transplanted Europeans whose political institutions were originally built up in reaction to the Hanoverian monarchy, as a development in close sympathy with European liberalism and British nonconformity. This community of transplanted Europeans had the good fortune to have no strong military neighbour, it had almost a virgin continent into which to expand. This good fortune enabled the states to realize very swiftly the full social and political possibilities of steamboat, railway and electric communication. They have developed a great state on a modern scale with unprecedented unity and uniformity of general ideas. A little too favored by their immunities, they have not perhaps made as good pace as they might have done with their general elementary education, but altogether their progress has been marvelous. The congested, entangled states of Western Europe—I leave out the Russian and British systems, which are neither of them truly European—are destined to achieve ultimate unity under the same irresistible forces of transport that have expanded and held together the American United States. Their unification may be complicated or arrested by the unavoidable interweaving of the Slav and British systems with their destinies, and it is surely impossible for anyone outside the Belloc type of mentality to imagine either English speaking or Latin speaking America having neither voice nor share in the European part of their recrystallization of the world's affairs.

In this new order of life into which our kind is passing, Roman christendom will become a local tradition and province, just as Sumeria was swallowed up in Babylonia, just as the empires of Babylon and Egypt became memories and provinces in the empire of Rome. We are not developing new races, but merely mingling those we have; our cultures do not so much differentiate as fuse, so they may reasonably hope to have at last one creative culture with many aspects, replacing the partial civilizations of the past.

MIGHT BE HAPPIER

The fates imposed it upon Belloc that he should see these things and deny them. His lot, I think, might have been happier had he been born and settled in some rich little town in south France, there sat in a cafe drinking his good red wine, orating and denying, without irritation, of having seen and known. But it was decreed that he should go to America and come back to report a strange and terrible land, where mountains are not really mountains nor rivers rivers, where a strange race grows outside the pale. And an exile in modern England, he has been forced too, to turn his eyes into the depths of the past to see how life arose, how it has come to be that man will pass beyond man. And that, also, he denies with much banging of a little round drum of a table on a terasse. The American is a phantom, geology a lie; the only true world is Latin-made Europe. And if heaven had not created it specially for jolly men, Belloc would, and in the warmth of congenial friendliness of it Belloc will sit fighting reality with voice and gesture until the good red wine runs out and the sun goes down upon him for the last time.

Choral Union Concert to Be International

Patriotic Songs of Other Nations Will Be Feature

By ADRIAN SCOLTEN

American patriotic music will be a feature of the public concert which Choral Union will present Thursday afternoon in Music hall.

The spirit of loyalty, displayed in patriotic songs and hymns of many nations, songs and music written by great poets and composers of those lands, will be the spirit of this concert. The program is a fitting one to precede national commemoration of the birth of George Washington.

The second half of the program is devoted to American songs, beginning with a setting of Kipling's "The Recessional" by a New York musician, Henry Holden Huss, and closing with a paeon of praise to our country written by an American poet Frederick Manley, with music by Henry F. Gilbert, an American composer.

Two poems by Oliver Wendell Holmes, set to music by American composers, are on this program. John Knowles Paine composed the melodious music for "Freedom, Our Queen," and Arthur Farwell set to music a part of "The Chambered Nautilus," under the title "Build Thee More Stately Mansions," both numbers included in the concert program.

Reminiscent of the late war is a song composed by Fay Foster for Elizabeth A. Wilbur's poem, "The Americans Come." This son includes parts of the refrain of "Over There," the marching song of the American boys who went across, to whom it is dedicated. It represents a dialogue between a blinded Frenchman and his little son.

"Souls of the Righteous," a patriotic anthem by T. Tertius Noble, New York organist and prominent composer, will also display American musical conception of the spirits of patriotism and loyalty.

Other nations represented in this concert are Norway, Germany, Scotland and England.

Katharine Reid, soprano, and David MacPherson, baritone, are soloists for the concert. Francis Landon, instructor at the School of Music, is pianist, and P. W. Dykema, professor of public school music at the school, is director of the chorus.

VECSEY TOUR CANCELLED

A late notice has been received from the management of Ferenc Vecsey that he can not come to America and complete his season's tour. This will be received as a great shock by his many followers in Madison. Mr. Vecsey was being brought here under the auspices of the Madison All-Star Series, which included Lhevinne, Schipa and Case.

The management announces that the last concert in the series has not been decided upon yet, but will be made known the first of next week.

Cecil Arden, the beautiful mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is one of those seriously considered. This is Miss Arden's third season with the opera and the parts she has undertaken give ample proof of her artistic value.

Mrs. Thompson's Advice

WOMAN HAS RUN OF HARD LUCK

Series of Mishaps, Love Worries Make Her Life Varied, If Not Happy

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman 28 years old and have had a rather eventful life, full of hard work, tragedies in the family, romance, achievements and disappointments. Lately I have had a run of bad luck

My mother lives with a younger brother who finds it all he can do to support a wife and a baby. I got word that she had been taken to the hospital for an operation and so I sent on my bank savings at once to make it easier for them. Then I lost my position because of reorganization in the company where I worked. After two weeks without employment, which put me in debt I secured another position which I liked very much.

Last week I got notice that they were cutting down on help and that my services would not be needed after two weeks. I found that I was not the only one to be discharged. The night I got my notice of dismissal I had a dinner engagement with a man who works where I was formerly employed. I was so discouraged that I poured out my trouble to him. Then he told me that he loved me and had for some time and he wanted me to marry. I was so discouraged and I really loved him so that in a moment of weak ness I became engaged.

When I got home and had time to think over what I had done I realized that I had taken advantage of the man. His salary is not large enough to warrant marriage just now and I couldn't marry him until I had paid off my obligations—a thing which does not look promising with another period of lack of employment. I also felt that if I had not told my sad story I would not have had a proposal. In the night I got up and wrote him a letter, saying that I felt I had played on his sympathy and led him into something he would regret, and therefore I wanted him to consider our engagement at an end. As soon as he got the letter he came to see me and assured me that he had simply found courage to speak of something which had been close to his heart for a long time.

I really don't know what to do. I still feel and always will that I took unfair advantage. Don't you think I ought to insist on breaking the engagement for the time being?

RUTH

The man is telling you the truth when he says that he has wanted to speak of his love for a long time, and that what you said merely gave him the courage. Do not try any further to break the engagement since you love him, because he is evidently sincere. It would hurt him to have you too persistent.

A LOST CHUM

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a girl chum and lately I cannot understand her actions. She and I used to be together all the time while we were out of school, but now she has a boy friend and she doesn't seem to to think I am good enough for her. She acts very grown up and laughs at the things I say and tells me they are childish. I am very lonesome without any chum and want to know what I can do to win back her affections.

LONESOME.

After a girl has her first sweetheart she is very apt to change. I am afraid you and your girl friend will not be congenial while she goes with a boy and you do not. Do your part to be friendly, but try not to grieve when she is not responsive. Instead of trying to win back her affections, I would advise you to interest yourself in some other girl who will have something to think about besides a sweetheart.

Better Than Calomel

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

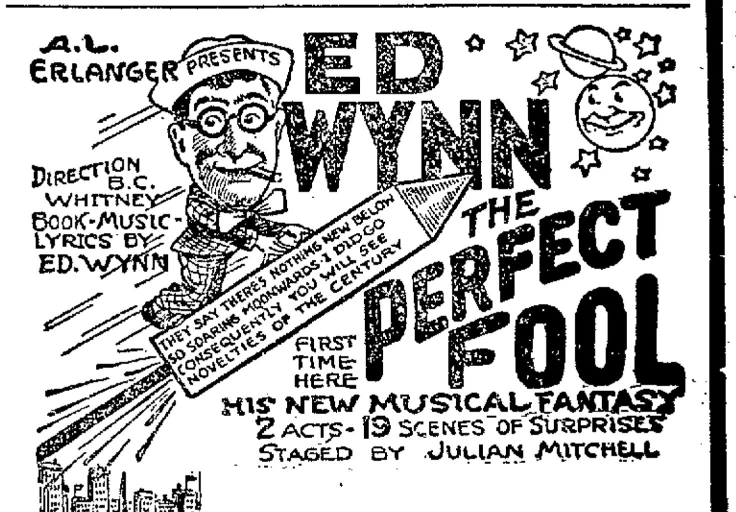

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

Gora regarded her with frank admiration, wholly unassumed. "Oh, you couldn't lose Clavey if you tried. He is mad about you. We can all see that, and I knew it before he did himself. It's only—really—that I'm afraid you'll be bored to death with so much shop if you don't set up one for yourself."

"Oh, I never intend to be bored again as long as I live." Mary Zattiany was a very shrewd woman and she determined on a bold stroke. Her suspicion lingered but had lost its edge. Gora Dwight was deep and subtle but there was no doubt that she was honorable. "I shall tell you something," she said, "but you must give me your word that you will not betray me—not even to Lee."

Miss Dwight's mind, not her body, gave a slight stir of uneasiness. But she answered warmly: "Of course I promise."

"Very well, then. It is this. I shall never return to America. I sail in a fortnight. Lee follows soon after, and we shall be married in Austria."

"But—but—his play!" Miss Dwight was too startled to act. "He must be here for rehearsals. Some one has said that plays are not written, they're rewritten, and it's pretty close to the truth."

"I shall consent to his returning in time for rehearsals. Prolonged honeymoons are indiscreet. It is better to divide them into a series. I fancy the series might hold out indefinitely if adroitly spaced. Moreover, being a modern myself, I like new methods. And he will be too busy to miss me. I shall be equally busy in Vienna."

"But will he consent? Lee? He's not used to having his plans made for him. He's about the most dominating male I know."

"I feel sure he will when the time comes. It is woman's peculiar gift, you know, to convince the dominating male that he wants what she wants."

Gora laughed. But she also could turn mental somersaults. "I think it a splendid arrangement. Then we should not lose Lee altogether, for we really are devoted to him. He is an adorable creature for all his absurdities. But I can't endure the thought of losing you."

"You must pay me a long visit in Vienna. Many visits. I can assure you that you will find material there, under my guidance, for a really great novel."

Gora's eyes sparkled. She was all artist at once. "I should like that! How kind of you. And what [illegible]"

"Yes. Austria is the most interesting country in Europe, and the most beautiful to look at—and de[illegible]"

"It will be heavenly," Gora made up her mind at once that she would [illegible] no more ingenuity to stop the marriage. Its modernity appealed to her, and she foresaw new impulses to creation. "The American Scene," conceivably, might grow monotonous with time; and with these daily recruits bent upon describing its minutiae with the relentless efficiency of the camera. And with all her soul she loved beauty. With the possible exception of Bavaria she knew Austria to be the darling of nature.

Once more she chose to believe this woman would manage Clavering to his own good, and to the satisfaction of his friends, who, as she well knew, were alarmed and alert. They were too polite to show it, but much of their enthusiasm for Madame Zattiany had dimmed with the knowledge that she was a scientific phenomenon. Fundamentally the brilliant creative mind is quite as conservative as the worldly, or the inarticulate millions between, for they have common ancestors and common traditions. They feared not only to lose him, moreover, but had begun to ask one another if his career would not be wrecked.

Miss Dwight concluded that such an uncommon and romantic marriage might be a spur to Clavering's genius, which might weaken in a conventional marital drama set in the city of New York.

She rose and for the first time kissed Madame Zattiany. "It will be too perfect!" she said. "Let me visit you in summer when he is rehearsing. He can arrange to have his first-nights in September, and then write his next play in Austria, filling his time while you are absorbed in politics. Heavens, what a theme! Some day I'll use it. Perfectly disguised, of course."

"And I'll give you points," said Mary, laughing. She returned the other's embrace; but when she was alone she sighed and sank back in her chair, without picking up her book. Miss Gora Dwight had given her something to think of! The last thing she wanted was a serial honeymoon. She wanted this man's companionship and his help. But she had slowly been forced to the conclusion that Clavering's was a mind whose enthusiasms could only be inspired by some form of creative art; politics would never appeal to it. In her comparative ignorance of the denaturalized brain, she had believed that a brilliant gifted mind could concentrate itself upon any object with equal fertility and power, but she had seen too much of the Sophisticates of late, and studied Clavering in too many of his moods to cherish the illusion any longer. Playwrighting seemed to her a contemptible pastime compared with the hideous facts of Life as exemplified in Europe, and she had restrained herself from an angry outburst more than once. But she was too philosophical, possibly too fatalistic, not to have dismissed this attitude eventually. Clavering could not be changed, but neither could she. There would be the usual compromises. After all, of what was life made up but of compromise? But the early glow of the wondrous dream had faded. The mistress was evidently the role nature had cast her to play. The vision of home, the complete matehood, had gone the way of all dreams.

XLII

She was not sorry to forego the doubtful luxury of meditation on the sadness of life. When Miss Trevor's card was brought to her she told the servant to show her up and bring tea immediately. She was not interested in Agnes Trevor, a younger sister of Polly Vane, but at all events she would talk about her settlement work and give a comfortably commonplace atmosphere to the room in which tragic clouds were rising. As it had happened, Mary, during these past weeks, had seen little of New York women between the relics of her old set and their lively Society-loving daughters. The women between forty and fifty, whether devoted to fashion, politics, husbands, children, or good works, had so far escaped her, and Agnes Trevor, who lived with Mrs. Vane, was practically the only representative of the intermediate age with whom she had exchanged a dozen words. But the admirable spinster had taken up the cause of the Vienna children with enthusiasm and raised a good deal of money, besides contributing liberally herself. She was forty-two, and, although she was said to have been a beautiful girl, was now merely patrician in appearance, very tall and thin and spinsterish, with a clean but faded complexion, and hair-colored hair beginning to turn gray. She had left Society in her early twenties and devoted herself to moralizing the East Side.

She came in with a light step and an air of subdued bright energy, very smartly but plainly dressed in dark blue tweed, with a large black hat in which a wing had been accurately placed by the best milliner in New York. Her clothes were so well-worn, and her grooming was so meticulous, her accent so clean and crisp, her manner so devoid of patronage, yet subtly remote, her controlled heart so kind that she perenially fascinated the buxom, rather sloppy, preternaturally acute, and wholly unaristocratic young ladies of the East Side.

Mary, who had a dangerous habit of characterizing people in her Day Book, had written when she met Agnes Trevor: "She radiates intelligence, good will, cherriness, innate superiority and uncompromising virginity."

"Dear Mary!" she exclaimed in her crisp bright tones as she kissed her amiable hostess. "How delightful to find you alone. I was afraid you would be surrounded as usual."

"Oh, my novelty is wearing off," said Mary drily. "But I will tell them to admit no one else today. I find I enjoy one person at a time. One gets rather tired in New York of the unfinished sentence."

"Oh, do." Mary's quick eye took note of a certain repressed excitement in the fine eyes of her guest, who had taken an upright chair. Lounging did not accord with that spare ascetic figure. "And you are quite right. It is seldom one has anything like real conversation. One has to go for that to those of our older women who have given up Society to cultivate the intellects God gave them."

"Are there any?" murmured Mary.

"Oh, my dear, yes. But, of course, you've had no time to meet them in your mad whirl. Now that things have slowed down a bit you must meet them."

"I'm afraid it's too late. I sail in a fortnight."

"Oh!" Miss Trevor's voice shook oddly, and the slow color crept up her cheeks. But at that moment the tea was brought in.

"Will you pour it out?" asked Mary. "I'm feeling rather lazy."

"Of course." Miss Trevor was brightly acquiescent. She seated herself before the table. The man retired with instructions that Madame was not at home to other callers.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

(Copyright, 1924 by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BROWN JUG.

Uncle Wiggily was all alone in the hollow stump bungalow one day. Nurse Jane had asked the rabbit gentleman to remain in while she went to the store.

"Why can't we both go out and lock up the bungalow" Uncle Wiggily had asked.

"Because," Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy answered, "I expect Mrs. Bow Wow, the lady dog to call, and she would be much disappointed if no one was at home. You just stay here a little while. I won't be long at the store."

So Uncle Wiggily waited alone in the bungalow, and he fussed and fretted—you know how it is when you are waiting for some one to come home when you want to go out and have adventures.

At last the door bell rang!

"That must be Nurse Jane now!" thought the rabbit, hopping to open it.

"I'm not afraid to turn the jug upside down!"

But no—it was a little mouse peddler man selling collar buttons.

"Thank you—I don't want any!" cried Uncle Wiggily shutting the door. A little while after that the bell rang again.

"This, surely, must be Nurse Jane," the bunny said.

But it was a little mouse gentleman—this time selling tin dishpans.

"Thank you—I don't want any!" cried Uncle Wiggily, shutting the door. A little while after that the bell rang again.

"I'll fix that mouse peddler for fooling me!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I'll scare him."

So he opened the door very quickly, jumped out and shouted:

"Boo!"

"Oh, my goodness!" cried Nurse Jane, jumping off the steps. For it was Nurse Jane this time. What's the matter with you, Uncle Wiggily?" she asked, "Why did you cry 'boo!' at me?"

"Oh, I beg your pardon" said the bunny. "I thought you were a peddler mouse gentleman. Well, I'm glad you're back."

"Yes, but I can't stay!' exclaimed Nurse Jane. "I forgot and left the brown jug at the store. I'll have to go back after it."

"No, you stay here and I'll get the brown jug that you forgot!" quickly said the bunny. "I've stayed in long enough. Now it's your turn."

"Goodness knows I don't want to go out again," sighed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "If you will bring the brown jug I left at the grocery—on the counter by the dried apples you'll find it—I shall not need to go back."

"I'll get the jug!" offered the bunny.

"But whatever you do—don't turn it upside down!" called Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy to Uncle Wiggily as he hopped away. "Don't turn the brown jug upside down."

"Of course not! I wouldn't think of such a thing," laughed the rabbit.

"Why should I want to turn a brown jug upside down?"

"Well, you never can tell," muttered Nurse Jane as she took off her best shoes, for they hurt her feet.

Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods to the grocery store.

"Did Nurse Jane forget and leave our brown jug here?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Yes," answered the Grocery Dog. "It's there on the counter by the dried apples. But whatever you do, don't turn the jug upside down! Don't do it!!"

Hum! There must be something queer about this!" thought the rabbit. "Why should I ever dream of turning the brown jug upside down?"

So Uncle Wiggily took the brown jug, and he was hopping home with it, when, all of a sudden, out from behind a big rock popped the Bob Cat.

"Ah ha!" howled the Bob Cat. "I'm going to nibble your ears, Uncle Wiggily, but first you must tell me what is in that brown jug."

"I don't know what is in it," truthfully answered the rabbit. "All I know is that I am not to turn it upside down," and he looked at the jug, which had a piece of corncob in it for a cork.

"Pooh! I'm not afraid to turn the jug upside down!" howled the Bob Cat. "And after I turn it upside down I'm going to nibble your ears."

So the Bob Cat turned the brown jug upside down, and, all at once, there ran out from it, around the corncob cork, which didn't fit tightly—there ran out a lot of sticky molasses. All over the Bob Cat's paws the sticky molasses ran. He dropped the jug, but it fell on some soft snow and didn't break.

"Wow! Wow! I'm all stuck up!" howled the Bob Cat. He tried to wipe his sticky paws off on his fur, but he was more stuck up than ever, and at last he felt so sticky that he had to run home to wash himself.

"And I'm not going to wait for you to come back, either!" laughed the rabbit. Then, catching up the jug of molasses, and holding it right side up so no more would run out, the rabbit ran safely home.

"That's the reason I didn't want you to tip the jug—because the corncob cork didn't fit tightly," said Nurse Jane. "But I'm glad it fooled the Bob Cat."

The rabbit was also glad. And if the golf ball doesn't get tired of staying in the house, and bounce up to look at the face of the clock, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the cheese.

The Tenth Year

By LAIN C. LANE

CHAPTER XXX.

Evelyn had a headache when she awakened the next morning, but she did not permit it to interfere with her intention of visiting the injured Mrs. Balir.

She called the hospital. "The patient was taken to her home late yesterday afternoon," she was told.

A little relief swept over her. Maybe there wouldn't be any trouble after all.

She put a long coat over her house dress, fitted a plain sailor hat over her hair and set out in the car for the address of the Balir's given in the newspapers. She thought of stopping for some fruit or flowers, but immediately dismissed the idea.

She found the Balir home to be a dismal old house in an ugly block. Once it had been the grand residence of one of the dandies of the town, but now the house gave the impression of dying with the colic. All around it were shacky cottages. Even the trees along the block looked forlorn and hopeless.

Evelyn's arrival before the Balir house was greeted by the peeking of scores of children. Automobiles were nothing new to them, but that a stranger was calling at Mrs. Balir's house the day after she was injured was a matter deserving investigation.

Mrs. Jille knocked at the door of the house. A dog's bark resounded within. In a few minutes, after another knock, the door was opened, and a dowdy face appeared. Thatches of silvery gray hair slumped over dull eyes. Below the face was a bent body smather in a soiled kimona that had once been pink.

"Are you Mrs. Balir?" Evelyn asked.

The woman nodded, gazing at her intently.

"Do sit down—don't let me keep you up." As the woman backed up, limping, to a chair and sat down slowly, Evelyn closed the door. The dog ran under a bed.

"I am Mrs. Frederick Jille," Evelyn went on, "the wife of the man who was driving the automobile at the time you were hurt." She carefully avoided saying "The automobile that struck you."

The woman nodded without saying anything.

"I thought I'd come and see how you were. They told me at the hospital you had been brought home."

"I had to come home," the woman spoke for the first time. "I can't afford to stay in no hospital. And I got children and my old man to look after. I've got work to do." She spoke without changing the leaden expression on her face.

She paused, then spoke again: "What's your husband going to do?"

"Why, I don't know. What do you think he ought to do?"

"My leg is in terrible pain. I wanted to stay in the hospital, but I couldn't—I got work to do. But my old man is going to see your husband."

"Do you think it was all my husband's fault?"

"He hit me, didn't he? I was in the safety zone." She rocked her chair. "I guess the judge can decide who's to blame day after tomorrow."

Evelyn had not known when the trial would be.

"Of course we want to do what's right," she told Mrs. Balir.

"I hope so." She continued her rocking. "I've got an awful bad led."

"What does the doctor say about it?"

"I ain't got no doctor. I want to get well. I got a family to take care of."

Evelyn arose. "I'm glad your injuries are not serious," she said, moving to the door.

She was glad when she was out of the house.

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle Ray

A German Student

COLEGE DISPUTES AND FIGHTS

It was common for students of the Middle Ages to wear daggers or swords at their sides. Some of them were wild fellows. They did not care much about learning. They spent most of their time gambling, drinking and having a general "good time."

What do you suppose the daggers and swords were for? Chiefly for fights with the townsmen. At Oxford, Cambridge, Paris, Cologne and other university places, many his fist was to be fined four shill- They were often in quarrels with the boisterous fellows who went to the universities.

Sometimes, the students quarreled amongst themselves. At Oxford there was a hot feud between Irish and Scotch students.

In an effort to put an end to the fighting, Oxford decided to impose fines. Any student who struck with his first was to be ned four shillings. For striking with stone or club, the fine was six shillings and eight pence. The fine was ten shillings for striking with a dagger, sword or ax.

The head man of Oxford was called the chancellor. He acted as the judge when students or teachers got into trouble.

One time there was a dispute between Sir Thomas Lancester, who had many students in his charge, and John Merton, a teacher. The wife of Merton was also in the dispute, on the side of her husband. Lancester was backed by a certain Simon Marshall.

Instead of going to law, these four tried to have the quarrel settled peaceably. One of the chief men of the university heard the case and decided:

"You shall agree not to go to law about this case. Neither shall you strike one another, or use words of abuse, or make faces.

"Instead of doing any such things you shall have a party together. One side must supply a goose and some wine. The other must bring bread and beer."

When students lived together in halls or "dormitories," there was likely to be a good deal of noise-making. Sometimes, a disorderly student was put on bread and water I nother cases he was punished by having the Bible read aloud to him while he ate!

PHELPS—George Priest of Phelps will soon begin the section of a summer resort on the Wisconsin river near Dead Horse bend. The resort will be ready to receive guests on July 1.

Badger Hockey Sextet Loses to Wolverines

Michigan Cops 3 to 0; Poor Ice Shows Up Contest

With an almost air-tight defense and a definite scoring attack the Michigan hockey team defeated the Badger six by a score of 3 to 0 yesterday afternoon. Wisconsin could not stop Michigan's fast team work and was unable to penetrate their defense to take any close shots at the goal.

The poor condition of the ice slowed the game up somewhat and no brilliant hockey was displayed. The game was listless and only now and then did it warm up.

Play had been started only a few minutes when Kahn, Michigan captain, playing right defense, shoved the puck into the net from a melee in front of the goal. There was no more scoring during the first period. Captain Johnson, left defense for Wisconsin tried numerous long shots from the center of the rink but they were nearly all wide.

> Wisconsin hockey team meets Michigan tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock in the fourth game of the season. Michigan won the first game, played at Ann Arbor several weeks ago, and the Badgers came back and tied in the second game.

Michigan scored again in the second period with a long shot by Quirk, the big Maize and Blue right wing. It was a pretty one, sailing through the air from nearly the center of the rink. Wisconsin seemed to warm up in this period but could not carry the puck to the Michigan goal and had to resort to long shots.

Badgers Held Scoreless

A short goal in the third period by Reynolds, Michigan center, ended the scoring. Wisconsin was most threatening in this part of the game, but was unable to get the puck through the Michigan goal tender.

Quirk, Michigan right wing, was the star of the game, displaying some fast individual work and showed the most consistent play. Kahn, Michigan captain, also played a good game for his team.

Gross and Captain Johnson showed the best work for Wisconsin. Gross did not play the whole game, but showed the best individual work of the Wisconsin team. Ritchie also played a good game for Wisconsin.

Yesterday's Line-up

Stage All Set For Uuiversity Ice Carnival

Skaters Ready to Enter Contests at Annual Winter Event

The eighth annual university ice carnival will start promptly at 2 o'clock this afternoon on Lake Mendota. It is not too late to enter any of the races and anyone may do so by signing up on the ice.

No admission is to be charged for spectators. This has been made possible by gifts from the Athletic department and Athletic council aggregating $250.

The ice boat and ski races have been postponed for a week because of the condition of the snow and ice. However, all other features scheduled will be run off tomorrow.

To Award Medals

The first race at 2 o'clock will be the 100 yard dash for men. It will be followed by 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, 880 yard skate and one mile skate. All of these events are for men. Then come the women's races. The 100 yard dash is scheduled first to be followed by the 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash and 880 yard skate.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded for first, second and third places respectively in the above races.

Fraternity and sorority relay teams, composed of four members each will skate in an 880 yard race. Loving cups will be awarded to the winning and second teams in both classes.

Feature Night Stunts

The last events of the afternoon carnival are the open one mile and two mile skates. Great enthusiasm and interest has already been displayed in these races.

The night carnival will start at 7 o'clock. Fireworks, fancy skating by moonlight, stunt races and toboggan races are a few of the features that are being offered by the night carnival committee.

A huge bonfire on the ice will be lighted at 9:30 o'clock when the basketball game is over, and refreshments will be served in the hydraulics laboratory.

Orchestras will be at hand to furnish music for the skaters and spectators.

14 Brooklyn Players Yet to Sign Contracts

NEW YORK— The Brooklyn Nationals disclosed today that ten players have not yet signed 1924 contracts. The list includes Bailey Bert Griffith and Neis, outfielders; Berg, French, High Jones and Klugman, infielders; Grimes, pitcher, and Taylor, catcher.

Below, Nichols and Bennett Leave Badger Ranks Through Graduation First Semester

Three Star Athletes Complete Scholastic Work Here

WISCONSIN lost three of her star athletes by graduation at the end of the first semester and the places of all will be hard to fill.

Below Graduates

Probably the best known of the trio is Marty Below, captain of the 1923 football team and chosen by practically all critics for All-Conference, All-Western and All-American tackle. Below was one of the fastest tackles who ever represented the Badgers in the gridiron, almost invariably beating the ends down the field on punts and repeatedly tackling the opponent's safety in his tracks. Below had another year of Conference competition but completed his scholastic work and is leaving school to enter business.

Nichols Finishes

Tom Nichols, another star football lineman, also finished his work in school during the first semester and leaves to take up business. Nichols played guard or center on the Varsity team for three years and was a tower of strength to the line both on offense and defense. In addition he represented the Varsity with the hammer and discus in the spring track and field events.

Bennett Too

The third of the famous athletes to leave school is Johnny Bennett, the crack swimmer, who completed his studies in the first semester and will receive his degree in June. Bennett holds the Conference records in both the 40 and 100 yard dashes and his loss to the swimming team will be felt for a long time.

Meanwell Explains System In New Athletic Review

The major style of defense used by the Wisconsin basket ball team is explained in "Team Methods in Basketball", an article written by Coach Meanwell which appears in the February issue of The Athletic Review. The magazine will be sold at the game with Illinois this evening.

The article points out the work of each member of the team when on the defensive and explains how Wisconsin teams have been one of the hardest in the conference to score against. It is the first of a series of articles by Coach Meanwell which are intended to explain the play of his team in order that spectators can derive a keener pleasure from seeing the squad in action.

"Gymnastics and the Student" is the title of an article by Fred E. Schlatter, professor of physical education It refers to the athletic contests of the Greeks and also explains the benefits of gymnastics in the development of the parts of the body. Al Buser, president of the recently formed "W" men's association and captain of the 1911 football team, writes of the purposes and aims of this new organization.

Because of the ice carnival which takes place today a new cover depicting a hockey game was designed for this issue by Gretchen Gilbert '25. It is planned to use a new design for each issue of The Review instead of the regular cover which has been used in the past.

All phases of winter sports at the university are covered in this issue, which is called the winter sports number. Articles on basketball, swimming, track and hockey show the standings of the respective teams so far this season. Cuts of many Wisconsin athletes are used as illustrations.

Purdue Meets Michigan Quint At Ann Arbor

Is Feature Game In Big Ten Conference Race

CHICAGO— Interest in the conference basketball race tonight will center chiefly in the game between Purdue and Michigan at Ann Arbor, and the Illini appearance at Wisconsin, the first game that Wisconsin has played since the Maroons defeated them on Jan. 26. Chicago has what rates as a comparatively easy game as conference games go, with Iowa at Bartlett Gym while Indiana and Ohio will stage a desperate struggle at Columbus.

Illinois will just about show what is to be expected from Wisconsin. Meanwell has had three weeks to get his system going and it is a case of now or never. Return of Lipe strength.

SAVANNAH. Ga.—Young Stribling Georgia light heavyweight knocked out Roundhouse Ross of Miami, Fla., in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout.

BadgerCagers Meet Illinois Here Tonight

Fast Game Booked at U. W. Gym; Crucial Tilt

What the varsity quintet does when it meets Illinois tonight will largely determine Wisconsin's fate in its chase after another basketball title.

Right now Chicago and Purdue are tied for first place in the conference, each having won five and lost one game. A defeat by both teams and a win by Wisconsin would place the Badgers in the lead and so the critical game of the season will be played tonight.

The Suckers have a team which will make a hard fight to vindicate itself for the three losses which it has already incurred—losses which resulted from a failure to score one or two baskets. They defeated Butler by one point, which puts them very nearly on a par with Wisconsin.

The Illinois team is a seasoned aggregation and has five letter men from last year. Stillwell, Popkin, Potter, Lipe and Roettceger are all men of the first water, and it will be no mean feat to snatch a victory from them.

"Doc" Meanwell, while he refuses to make any definite predictions as to the outcome of the game, is far from downhearted. He has been developing some new plays in secret practice lately, and when he unlimbers his strategy something is bound to happen.

Wisconsin's victory over Butler last Saturday not only instilled a lot of fight into the men but also gave them some much needed confidence. Chicago caught them on an off night and something was necessary to key them up to a winning pitch.

Gibson Going Good

Although Spooner will not start he is in condition to play again and will see action if he is needed. "By" Barwig is recovering from an attack of tonsilitis and will probably start at guard, while Marsh Diebold will hold down the other guard position.

Diebold has been doing some clever playing and is one of the most reliable men onthe squad. He pulled two games out of the fire for Wisconsin and is ready to do it again. Whenever a man hits Marsh he stops—that's all you need to say about Diebold as guard.

Coach Meanwell has a reliable substitute to replace Barwig in Wackman. "Wack" got going in the Butler fray and is a fast, tricky player. He has a good eye and can usually be counted on for a couple of ringers.

Swimmers Training for Meet With Gophers

The varsity swimming squad, weakened by the loss of several good men by ineligibility, is beginning the final training period for the second conference meet of the season which will be held with Minnesota next Wednesday night in the gym tank.

Steinauer, visited by the usual mid-season crush of ineligible paddlers, is working hard on the remaining men to make up for loses. Prospects were especially bright for the plunge the first of the year, but the ineligibility of Dummer, Nichols, Straus, and Cook, all plungers, leaves him with only one man, Winchell, a new man in the plunge.

JANESVILLE, Wis.—Five-man shooting in the 22nd annual Wisconsin State Bowling tournament will come to an end at midnight Sunday and mark the close of the 31st day of hammering. The doubles and singles will conclude their bombardment at 5 p. m. Monday.

When the last ball has been rolled, the greatest state tourney ever held, and the second greatest Kegelbund on record, will have ended a month and a day of successful run. Not for years has there been such a tourney as that held in Janesville. The five-man, doubles and singles competitors have rammed the wood for unusually excellent marks.

Upon paper there are quintets that should upset the wood for money counts over the week-end, but there is nothing to indicate that first place in any event will change.

Capital Times Cagers Set For Tilt Tonight

Meet Champ Waukesha Phantoms for Hard Battle

Tonight at the Y. M. C. A. The Capital Times basketball team will meet the state champ Waukesha Phantoms. There is no over confidence shown by these two teams, but both are fighting for a win. If the locals lose, they hope to show that they lost this game to a better team. If The Times wins tonight, they will rise in the ranks of a high class basketball team. Kaufmann and Blodi, two of the best players in the state, will try their keenest basketball shooting against the "Times." The Times line up will be:

Epstein, rf.; Chechick, lf.; Mathewson, c.; Crown, rg.; Cohen, lg.

Subs, Miller, f and g.; Olsen, g.; Shapiro, f.; Tomarkin, g.

The Waukesha Phantoms will arrive for their game at 2 o'clock. The Waukesha team will be hosts of Roundy at the Central-Wisconsin high game this afternoon.

The first game tonight will be the Y. M. C. A. Triangles against the Carpenters of the Industrial league. Both of these teams are confident of winning. The first game will start at 7:30. Tickets are on sale at the door for 25c. All "Big Ten" basketball scores to be announced on the floor.

Chicago Bowlers to Make Bid for High Pin Honors

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Chicago bowlers will make another strong bid for five-men team honors at the International Bowling Association tournament tonight when eighteen quints from that city are scheduled to roll.

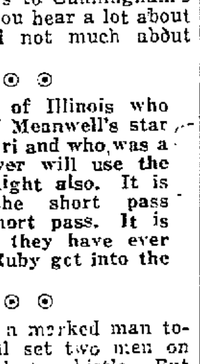

Eleven teams from Milwaukee, Wis., are on the last shift. Iowa will be well represented by bowlers from Fort Dodge, Waterloo and Sioux City. Other cities on the program include La Crosse, Wis., Duluth, Minn., and Eau Claire, Wis.

ROUNDY SAYS

Things Are In A Bad Way For Meanwell—But Shout Out Loud That Wisconsin Will Win

Are we going to beat Illinois tonight at basketball? Things are in a bad way right now for us with injuries and a lack of subs. But take a tip from the old kid and shout out loud that Wisconsin will win tonight. I'll say Wisconsin will win.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

This is the Illinois center. Is he there? These figures say he is and then some. Cunningham at present leads the conference in scoring. Both Stillwell and Cunningham are centers they have met twice this year. At Columbus on Cunningham's own floor Stillwell got 3 baskets, and 3 free throws a total of 9 points. Cunningham got 1 basket and 4 free throws a total of 6 points on his own home floor. At Urbana Stillwell got 7 baskets and 3 free throws. Cunningham got scored 2 baskets and 3 free throws, Stillwell at Urbana, 17; Cunningham 7. There these two men meet twice this year and Stillwell got 26 points to Cunningham's 13 points. But you hear a lot about Cunningham and not much about Stillwell.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

Coach Ruby of Illinois who was captain of Meanwell's star team at Missouri and who was a wonderful player will use the short pass tonight also. It is a night of the short pass against the short pass. It is the first time they have ever clashed since Ruby got into the conference.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

Gibson will be a marked man tonight. Ruby will set two men on Gibby from whistle to whistle But Gibson is hot now it seems and they will need two on him and then some. While watching Gibby it is up to Elsom to go out and do his stuff.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

I sure figured Meanwell and the team to lose about five games this year but the team and Doc are doing more under odds this year than I ever saw any other basketball team do at Wisconsin. If I ever admired a team it is this one

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

The game starts at 7:30 try and get in.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

Tonight at the "Y" The Capital Times team will clash with the Waukesha Phantoms a wild gang of basket shooters who have a record that has the Times kids scared to death. Both teams are fit and ready and the hall should be packed. Tickets will be on sale at "Y" all evening to the public.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

There will be two games all for a quarter can't beat that price. The Times and Waukesha game sure should be a bearcat. Both teams are fit for a tough night of it and the winner sure will know he was in a basketball game when that whistle blows ending the affair.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

Some fans figure Indiana is wrecked since Nykios left school their star basket getter. While he was in the line-up as I understand Indiana could hardly beat a real hard team. Nykios would not do his share of the defensive work, would not pass and would not feed. His big idea was to dribble and shoot, dribble and shoot. This Logan a new man on the team is worth a carload of men like Nykios and Lober is as good as Nykios but plays more of a team game all the way through, therefore don't just figure on getting baskets for himself. In the Wisconsin game Indiana led with seven points and with three minutes to go and he would not go up on defense. He kept standing around in the middle of the court waiting to get the ball to try some of his crazy shots.

Don't think ... a minute that Olson a former Badger star and a fine fellow has right now the best team in the conference I saw them play Illinois and talk about go in that second half. You will get a treat when you see this fellow Johnnie Miner. He is the best you ever saw on a court. A Traveler.

Henry Bernard the former fire captain is gone but the writer thinks of him every day. When they laid Henry Bernard to rest it didn't mean he has gone forever His name will live on among us His loss means a great friend gone and but his great friendship and fine deeds should live on. He was a good man.

A Good Turn

Get out folks and buy tickets for the "Hello Algy" a fine show to be held at high school auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday with Doris Mc Pherson and Royal Gordon as stars. The show is for the benefit of the disabled war veterans who are in federal training here which gives the boys in the hospitals little things of necessity and luxuries which the government don't furnish. Come on folks ... tickets off the boys. Give them a helping hand and the boys will appreciate it. Statz, a Madison boy, is trying to put it over, a fine kid and a great soldier. Tickets are on sale at Smith's music store on State St.

Four girls, however, he said, had an average of 91 or 92.

All Madison Will Observe Founders' Day

Merchants, Local Speakers to Aid In Jubilee at U. W. Monday

The entire city of Madison will unite in celebrating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the university Monday, and Madison merchants have volunteered to help in every way to make the celebration at 7:30 o'clock in the Stock pavilion a success.

At the request of the Association of Commerce, through its secretary Don Mowry '06, factory whistles all over the city will be blown and every church bell will ring out congratulations to the university's birthday.

Merchants to Aid

Cards have been printed by the Association of Commerce advertising the celebration in the stock pavilion, and city merchants have placed these in their windows, many of which will be decorated in appropriate cardinal colors or with historic pictures.

"Madison merchants realize the great importance that the presence of state institutions have in a commercial way upon the city and they are more than willing to cooperate at such an especial time as this,—the 75th anniversary of the university." Mowry declared.

With a jubilee gathering marked by much singing, novel dramatic touches, striking features, short, witty talks and a spirit of joyous celebration, rather than a grave array of serious orations, university students, alumni and faculty members in Madison will commemorate on Monday evening in the Stock pavilion the 75th anniversary of the founding of the University of Wisconsin.

Haresfoot Entertains

President Birge, acting as chairman and toastmaster, will introduce the speakers. The first event will be a brief summing up of the three-quarters of a century of university life by three prominent alumni, one from each period. Justice Burr W. Jones, '71, of Madison, will speak on "The First Quarter Century", Robert N. McMynn '21, Milwaukee, will discuss "The Second Quarter Century." Philip F. Lafollette '19, Madison will describe the third.

The Mozart club, a Madison musical organization, including many alumni, will lead the singing, and will also sing "Wisconsin Forever" a song composed for the occasion by Prof. J. F. A. Pyre of the English department, and Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music.

Then in a humorous act, entitled, "As We Were", men of the Haresfoot dramatic club will recall the costumes, manners and songs of several different periods in the past. They will appear in pairs, dressed in the styles worn by men and women students in 1854, 1874, 1894 and 1924 and each pair will sing a popular song of the period.

"Pages from the Badger", another feature, will present in dramatic form the various activities of student life today. As each is introduced by President Birge, a student prominent in the activity will speak for a moment and will call upon all members of the activity to rise in the audience.

Sing Traditonal Hymn

The presentation of a huge birthday cake will follow. Seventy-five lighted candles will show graphically the passing of three-quarters of a century by the University of Wisconsin.

While singing the traditional Badger college songs, "On Wisconsin", "Varsity", and "If You Want to be a Badger" the audience will rise as one great chorus. The University First Regimental band will close the Founders' day program with "The Star Spangled Banner."

The program is being arranged by a joint student and faculty committee, headed by Prof. Max Mason.

Ask Junior Clubwork Promotion In Wisconsin

Is there a place for junior clubwork in rural education today? K. L. Hatch, assistant director of the extension service of the college of agriculture, says there is. Speaking recently before more than 500 farmers and homemakers assembled here, he pointed out that it "takes energy, and a new philosophy to accomplish quantity production of quality products, and it will be the young folks of the Badger farms who will have to solve the problems of Wisconsin's future agriculture."

G. L. Noble, secretary of the national committee on boys' and girls' clubwork, called the attention of farmers to the fact that 43 percent of the farm boys and girls in the United States leave school at sixteen years and that clubwork must come to the rescue and supplement the schools.

Last year saw 700,000 youngsters, between the ages of ten and eighteen years old, enrolled in clubwork in the United States, and Mr. Noble looks for a doubling of this number in 1924.

Father-Son Partnerships on Farm are Increasing

Partnerships between Wisconsin farm boys and their fathers are on the increase. That the study of agriculture is helping to establish father-son partnerships is a fact recently hit upon by the federal board for vocational education, according to E. M. Tiffany, of the agricultural education department of the university here. Out of 8,340 boys who have studied agriculture in high schools and gone into occupations between the years 1904 and 1921, 4,488, or 51 percent, are on farms and of those who are farming, 48 percent are reported as partners. For the year 1915 29 percent of the output that took to the farms entered into partnership relations, while in 1921, this percentage had risen to 51 percent.

Questions and Answers

This Department Is Conducted By the Dane County League of Women Voters; Send In Your Questions On Government, Education and Citizenship

SEND IN YOUR QUESTIONS

This column is conducted in the nature of a public forum by the Dane County League of Women Voters, and each Saturday will answer questions relating to:

1. Education in Citizenship.
2. Improved Legislation.
3. Law Enforcement.
4. Efficiency in Government.

It will not answer questions relating to party politics.

A Press Secretary and a Research Committee sponsored by the Dane County League of Women Voters will use the facilities a capital city and a university center have to offer in answering these questions. All readers, both men and women, are invited to present their inquiries which should be submitted in writing and addressed to the Press Secretary, The Capital Times, not later than Wednesday afternoon of the week preceding the Saturday issue of the column. The names of those seeking information will not be made public.

The committee reserves the right to hold, if necessary, questions involving answers of unusual length and research, until a later date than the week of inquiry.

THERE OUGHT TO BE MORE

Question: What percentage of the eligible voters of Madison actually voted during the last presidential election? What proportion of those were women?

Answer: 73% of the voters in Madison voted at the presidential election in 1920. There were 14,744 votes cast. In the County only 59% of the eligible voters cast their ballot for president. No record is made of the number of women who vote.

WHERE IS THE AUTHORITY

Question: Has the sheriff of Dane County authority over the chief-of-police in Madison?

Answer: The sheriff has no authority over the chief-of-police, unless absolutely necessary as in the case of a riot. In such case, the Governor may call upon the sheriff to maintain peace in his county.

The chief-of-police is appointed by the Police and Fire Commission. The Commission has the power to organize and supervise the Police Department and to prescribe the rules and regulations for its control and management.

TOO BIG A JOB

Question: Is the County Superintendent of Schools elected or appointed? Why has Dane County two Superintendents?

Answer: The County Superintendent of Schools is elected to office Dane County is divided into two districts with a Superintendent in each because it is a large county and there are more teachers than one Superintendent can supervise. Several years ago the Legislature provided that more than one Superintendent might be elected in counties where there were than a certain number of teachers. Dane County, with over 300 rural schools, took advantage of that provision.

Eleanore Weisman, Sun Prairie, is the Superintendent in the First District.

T. S. Thompson, Mount Horeb, is Superintendent in the Second District.

They each have two Supervising Teachers to assist them.

COUNTY BOARD vs CITY COUNCIL

Question: Has the County Board of Supervisors any authority over the City Council? For instance, if the County Board voted an assessment which the City Council would not ratify, which would be upheld in its decision?

Answer: The County Board of Supervisors has no jurisdiction over any matters except those concerning the county. It leavies the county and State taxes and all the taxes paid by the county. The City Council may levy its own taxes and appropriations.

PAY YOUR TAXES

Question: I sold some lots in a subdivision of Madison and was paid in full for them. Now I find that these same lots are listed for sale by the authorities, that the taxes have never been paid on them. If I pay these back taxes, can I get a deed for these lots?

Answer: If a property owner does not pay his taxes and they become delinquent, you may pay the taxes and secure the tax receipt. If you do this each year for three years, you get the deed to the property. Before you can foreclose, you must give notice, to the property owner and to his mortgage holder if there is a mortgage. The last legislature provided that a minimum of 10 per cent interest must be paid on these tax certificates. These taxes may be purchased at public sale which is held by the County Treasurer on June 6th. They are sold to the highest bidder. The second year, the purchaser may speak to the County Treasurer in advance and he will be given the first perference on these taxes.

Murder Charged

Spring Valley Man Held On Charge Of Murdering Sister; Find Body Frozen And Mutilated

SPRING VALLEY, Wis.—George Everson, a young farmer near here, is being held on the charge of murdering his sister, Ida, Thursday night. Her body, frozen stiff, was found on the porch Fridaymornin g with the head battered to pieces.

Last spring the whole Evenson family of mother, son and two daughters were committed to Mendota. In the fall the mother son and one girl were discharged as cured. George, it is said, never before showed symptoms of violence.

Spring Valley is in Pierce county, about twenty miles northeast of Ellsworth.

Grady Prosecutes

Portage Attorney Represents State In Defense Of Standard Provisions Insurance Act

Daniel H. Grady, Portage, attorney, Friday was named by Gov. John J. Blaine to represent State Insurance Commissioner W. Stanley Smith in the supreme court test of insurance policy forms. Application for injunction against Commissioner Smith, filed by six insurance firms, was argued before the supreme court Friday afternoon.

It was stated that Mr. Grady probably will ask for a postponement of the case until Monday to permit preparation of the state's case, which involves validity of the standard provision act.

Must Stop Farming In the Mud; Drainage Is Remedy

Wisconsin must cut out the mud farming. That is the opinion of E. R. Jones, head of the agricultural engineering department of the College of Agriculture here, and state drainage engineer of the state of Wisconsin.

"We are working towards more economical production," says Jones, "but will never reach that place until the mud farming is cut out. The remedy is to tile the wet strips in the cultivated fields. If the farmer cannot afford to drain the waste and lowland, then he ought to sell it, even at a sacrifice, to someone who can afford to drain. No one can afford to pay taxes on wet land unless they make use of it.

Highway Commission Can Make Own Meeting Rules

The state highway commission is authorized to make its own rules regarding executive sessions and is not required to go into executive session on demand of one member, according to an opinion given by Asst. Atty. Gen. Bomp. The opinion is declared to be a victory for a majority of the commission who declined to go into executive meeting on demand of Edward Staudenmayer, member from Portage.

Ross Files Aldermanic Papers From The Ninth

F. J. Ross filed nomination papers Friday for the office of alderman of the ninth ward. He is the fourth candidate to enter the race in this ward for the position of Ald. Thomas McGowan.

Speck of Radium Worth $4,000 Lost In Sewer

SIOUX CITY, Ia.—A tiny bit of radium being used in an operation at a local hospital yesterday was lost. It is believed to have been thrown into the sewer. It is valued at $4,000 though no larger than a lead pencil rubber.

Troop No. 19 Wins Annual Scout Rally

Takes 50 Points to Place First; Troop 33 Is Second

Troop No. 19, of which Glenn Custer is scoutmaster, won the annual Boy Scout rally held at the university stock pavilion Friday night, taking 50 points in six events.

The troop's headquarters is at Guild hall of Grace Episcopal church. Members of the troop are: George Hines, John Hammes, Edward Frederickson, Theodore Dodge, Eugene Coombs, Donald Coombs, Edward Bazan Clarence Bathcelor, William Bardeen, Lauriston Sharp, Holger Toftoy, Donald McMurray, Fred Suhr, John Bardeen, William Warner, Thomas Mendenhall and William Lumpkin.

Second honors in the rally went to troop 33, winner of the 1923 rally. This troop annexed 36 points in the six events. Other troops finished as follows: tropp 14, third, with 30 points; troop one, fourth with 23 points; troop 17, fifth with 18 points and troop five, sixth with 16 points. The rest of the troops failed to get any points. Several hundred people attended the rally.

Event results follow:

Ribbons were presented to the troops winning first, second, or third in each event.

Says French Chicken Soup Is Healthy Dish

The famous French chicken soup "poule au pot" with its royal origin dating back to the famous Henry IV of Navarre, is a good practical dish for the American family, according to Miss Abby L. Marlatt, director of home economics at the university. Here is the recipe in the form Miss Marlatt brought it from France:

Take a good-sized chicken and a pound of smoked ham. Chop up the heart, liver and giblets of the chicken, with half a pound of stale bread crumbs, a quarter of a pound of the ham, a little parsley, tarragon and garlic. Make all this solid with two eggs well beaten up and mixed together, with pepper, salt and spices, and stuff the chicken with it. Put the chicken thus prepared into a pan of boiling water which already contains the ordinary vegetables for a soup. Boil for three hours. At the end of the second hour add the rest of the ham, so that it shall not be overcooked.

Urges Recreation for Women In the Country

"When the work of the home can be so simplified that the women on the farms can have time for recreation, for community interests, and for self-improvement, there will be the happy contentment on the farm that makes country homes the most desirable in the world," declares Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, state leader of home economics extension.

That standards of living in the city had advanced far beyond the ability of the country to keep pace with them, is pointed out by Mrs. Jones. She says that improvement of standards of living in the country so that life there will be equally healthful, pleasant and profitable is the chief objective of all efforts for rural improvement, and this is the end to which all workers in home economics have directed their efforts.

Student Strike Ousts Seminary President

ALBANY, N. Y.—The resignation of President M. G. L. Reitz of Hartwick Lutheran seminary was accepted at a meeting of the board of trustees yesterday afternoon. Mr. Leitzell said that the school closed by a student strike since Friday, was to be reopened at once. The strike was precipitated when President Reitz overruled a faculty vote recommending the dismissal of a student on charges of disobedience and violation of discipline.

Legion Lawyers Will Be Host to Post Members

Lawyer members of William B. Cairns post, American Legion, will provide the entertainment at the monthly social meeting of the post to be held Feb. 28 in Soldiers' Memorial hall, Monona ave. The post entertainment committee has planned to turn the monthly entertainments over to various business and professional groups, each group taking charge of one social meeting.

ROCHESTER—The thirteenth annual farmers and woman's rural educational meeting of Racine county closed at the Agricultural school here on Friday.

World Of Waves Made Here; The Shingle Popular

IF the world looks wavy to you don't blame it onto moonshine. The beauty parlors of Madison are somewhat to blame.

Mrs. A. Kinney, operator at the Madison Beauty Shop, during 1923, was responsible for turning out 4,914 marcel waves alone. This was over a period of 285 working days, making an average of about 17 persons a day. The heaviest day reported totaled 41 permanent waves in a single day.

"Bobbed haid is here to stay," Mrs. Kinney says, "in spite of the persistent statements that the style is losing followers. Permanent waving will be the principal hair dress for the coming summer. The 'shingle' cut is by far the most popular."

Mother Dies In Madison; Girl Told By Radio

THE radio, pressed into service for the operation or trains, for business transactions and for the relaying of news dispatches, was also a messenger of death.

When communication by telegraph and telephone was impossible, E. F. Kaeser, Brooklyn, picked up a message broadcast from Madison saying that Miss Mabel Rasmussen, a teacher near Monroe, was wanted because of the death of her mother here.

Mr. Kaeser called the superintendent of schools at Monroe, who reached Miss Rasmussen, at Browntown, by telegraph. Miss Rasmussen reached Madison the next day.

Cummings Funeral

Will Bury Richard T. Cummings Here On Monday; Was Veteran Business Man

Funeral services for Richard T. Cummings, who died Friday afternoon following a stroke of apoplexy will be held Monday morning at 8:30 from the residence, 345 W. Main st., and 9 o'clock from the St. Raphael's church, the Rev. T. B. Johnson officiating. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery.

Mr. Cummings was born in Ireland in 1843, coming to this city in 1869. He represented the fourth ward as alderman in 1884. He was formerly a partner of the late John Gallagher in the shoe business. He retired from business twelve years ago.

He is survived by his widow, one son Fred R. Cummings, an assistant to the city auditor, and a daughter, Miss Margaret E. Cummings. The pallbearers have not yet been chosen.

Pallbearers for the funeral will be George C. Sayle, James Mackin, Patrick Lynch, Henry Casserly, William Devine, and George Flynn.

Aust Approves of Artistic Billboards

Franz A. Aust, landscape specialist of the College of Agriculture, condemns the destructive methods of billboard advertisers which destroy the scenic beauty and increase travel hazards.

"The ugly billboard of no beauty, the billboard that shuts off scenic vistas, and demands the attention of travellers, should have no place in the advertising world," he declared.

"But we must not overlook the billboards that have beauty and which can and do fit in the environment. Those that cover vacant lots and rubbish piles are bentfiting the community in which they are used.

"When the poster and billboard are artistically made a part of the landscape scheme they are acceptable. If we are going to have outdor advertising, let us have regulations influenced by public opinion and inforced by the proper agencies," Aust argues.

Child Welfare Leader Will Speak Tuesday

Mrs. Morgan of the Child Welfare bureau of the state department of health will address members of the Physical Education club at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening in Lathrop hall.

Ten new members will be taken into the organization at this meeting. All physical education majors are eligible to enter the society, according to Maurine Hall '24, president.

The purpose of the organization is to foster a spirit of unity among the women majoring in physical education, to provide a means for them to become better acquainted and to bring speakers who will have messages of interest to members of the department. The club meets on alternate Tuesdays.

Clef Club Initiates Eight New Members

Eight new members were initiated into Clef club Thursday night in Lathrop parlors. Helen Brodd '25, Anna Margaret Clifford '26, Dorothy L'Hommedieu '26, La Verne Morrison '25, Mabel Peterson '26, Grace Plumlee '25, Lillian Soldan '26, and Goldene Sterling '25 were the initiates.

Soph Girls Will Form New Class Society

A meeting of all sophomore girls will be held at 12:15 o'clock February 20 in the S. G. A. rom at Lathrop hall for the purpose of forming a class club. Through informal discussion, it is hoped that better acquaintance and friendship may be established among the girls.

Passion Play Shows In Chicago Feb. 20

The passion players, whose life work is the presentation of the one great play, will be in Chicago, February 20. Churches in Milwaukee plan on sending a delegation of 500 to that city to persuade the famous players to come to Milwaukee.

Women's Rooms Cost $3 to $5 This Year

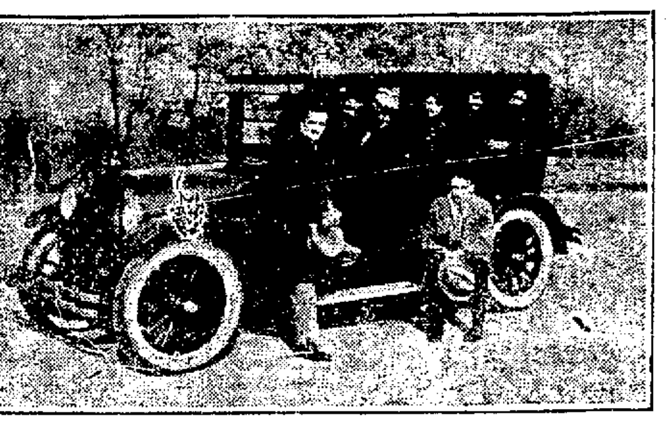

According to a statement made by F. Louise Nardin, Dean of Women, the average price paid by each woman in a double room is $3 to $5, and not $7 to $10 as The Cardinal stated on February 14.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND

Brought excellent results for Mr. G. E. Kubler, 1104 Mulberry St., Louisville, Ky., and his son. He writes: "I am very glad to say that my son and I used FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND and both got excellent results. We both had a severe cold and must credit the relief to FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND." One of the best and oldest preparations on the market for the relief of coughs, colds and hoarseness. Contains no opiates.—Adv.

"Oh Boy!" Says Eddie Foy

Eddie Foy and Family in their new Oldsmobile Six

Notice the famous Foy family smile?

"Eddie" says its lasting quality is partly due to the fact that the Foys have always owned an Oldsmobile.

When chorus girls wore long skirts and pompadours, and "In My Merry Oldsmobile" was the song hit of the country, "Eddie" Foy, one of America's foremost comedians, invested some of his earnings in an Oldsmobile. Since then he has purchased nine automobiles, and every one has been an Olds. The above photograph shows "Eddie" and six members of his family in his recently purchased six cylinder Oldsmobile sedan.

Chrysler Is Strong

Drives Up Hill On Slippery Day Without Use Of Gearshift

BY HARRY

Can you drive a car up the hill in front of the executive mansion on a slippery day without shifting gears?

It seems impossible, yet the new Chrysler did just that Friday morning when O. D. Smart, president of the Smart Motor Car Company, took me out for a demonstration. As we did not have chains, the wheels spun considerably when the car rounded the corner at the foot of the hill. But it kept moving forward and gradually picked up speed.

Not once did Mr. Smart reach for the lever while we were making the grade. Although the street was covered with ice and deep ruts, the car responded instantly to a touch of the accelerator and was climbing at the rate of 15 miles an hour when we were half way up the hill. Try to duplicate this.

When Mr. Smart let me take the wheel we traveled around the Square and through the dense traffic along State street. The brakes worked perfectly. We hit one corner going 35 miles an hour but brought the car almost to a full stop without the slightest skidding or body sway before the middle of the turn had been reached. That signifies safety in driving. Those living in the large cities where traffic conditions during the rush hours are almost unbearable will appreciate the Chrysler.

Auto Chats

BY HAROLD R. MAIER

The Madison Nash company expects to move into its new quarters on the corner of Blount street and E. Washington avenue within 30 days, A. R. Dillon, manager, said Friday. The new garage which is still under construction has a floor space of 75 by 155 feet.

The Jewett is considered the heaviest car in proportion to its wheelbase which is 112 inches. This implies sturdy construction and comfortable riding.

Those states having the greatest number of homes owned by the people living in them also have the greatest number of cars, an analysis made by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce shows.

* * *

Several members of the university faculty have shown great interest in the Chrysler, according to O. D. Smart of the Smart Motor Car Co., which handles the car. The car was one of the main attractions at the auto show last week and will continue to be so throughout the year. It is good for 70 miles an hour at least.

A doctor down in Fremont, Ohio, has owned 59 cars since he bought his first one, an Oldsmobile two-cylinder with lever steering arrangement, in May, 1901. A year later he had a Reo which burned up late one night, but he bought another car early the next morning and since that time has never been without transportation.

The Elcar demi-sport model is an effective compromise between two extremes. It has the dash of a sport model and the conservatism of the phaeton. The Sherman Avenue garage handles the car.

The J. P. Gillespie company will move into its new garage on E. Washington avenue on March 1.

Many cars have new and better looking instrument boards. In the Hupmobile which is handled by Neil Fox the ignition and light switch and the fuse panel form one oval; the oil guage and ammeter the other, with dash light and speedometer in the center.

For two generations Studebaker was the world's largest manufacturer of horse drawn vehicles, which business it liquidated in 1920. It first began to manufacture cars in 1897 and was the first to use the six-cylinder motor cast en bloc.

Pennco MOTOR OILS

Probably 75% of automobile engine troubles are directly attributed to faulty lubrication. Cheap oil prevents the full use of the power your engine develops. These are the reasons you should make sure that the oil you use satisfactorily lubricates your car. Pennco motor oils can be depended upon—Madison motorists will attest to this.

The World's End

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die"

There is special significance in the troublous days through which the world has passed since 1914.

Out of these events will come greater developments involving all nations and peoples.

The Bible accurately foretold present conditions.

Its prophecies regarding the future will be fulfilled with equal exactness.

The outstanding hope held forth in the Scriptures is the hope of eternal life, and the realization of this hope is now at hand.

It will be accompanied by all that the heart has longed for—health, peace and happiness.

God's purpose in giving man a revelation of His Plan was that mankind should use it, understand it, and appreciate the principles it sets forth.

An understanding of the Bible broadens one's view and inspires cheerfulness and optimism.

Prophets of old have described with glowing tongue the glories of the bright day that is now dawning.

Hear the subject discussed at length.

Wheat Prices Boost; Corn, Oats Strong

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO—As the result of a rush of buying orders, the wheat market scored a material advance today in the early dealings.

Initial prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to ⅞c higher, with May 1.09⅜ to 1.09¾ and July 1.09 to 1.09¾, were followed by continued firmness all around at well above yesterday's latest figures.

Subsequently, prices were sustained by the fact that a number of bulls who were sellers yesterday were reinstating their lines today. Predictions of a cold wave had some effect also as a rallying influence. The close was strong, 1⅝ to 1¾c net higher, May 1.10⅝ to 1.10⅞ and July 1.10½ to 1.10⅝.

CORN—Corn and oats were stronger with wheat, reports were current that farmers at many points appeared to have stopped selling corn, especially in Iowa, after opening uncharged to ¼ higher, May 79⅝ to 79⅞ the corn market showed moderate general gains.

No important reaction took place, although liberal receipts were expected here Monday, as leading roads were said to have much corn in transit. The close steady, ¼c to ⅝@⅝c net higher, May 80 to 80@80⅛.

OATS—Oats started at ⅛c off to ⅛c up, May 47½ to 47¾, later all months made a little upturn.

PROVISIONS—Provisions were without any decided change.

Stock Market Recovers From Friday Slump

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Supporting orders appeared in large volume in today's market, which made substantial recovery from yesterday's weakness. Short covering gave impetus to the advance, which was also facilitated by the encouraging tenor of the weekly mercantile reviews. Several of the large commission houses had urged their customers to make discriminatory purchases of stocks on the theory that yesterday's drastic decline had improved the technical position of the market and that there was no decided change in the economic situation. Houston Oil and Chandler Motors led on the rebound, each gaining four points while General Electric Baldwin, American Can, Corn Products, National Lead and Rock Island were among the many issues to sell two to three points above yesterday's final figures. The closing was strong, sales approximated 700,000 shares.

W. A. A. Holds Meeting Here On Tuesday

New Constitutional Amendments Will Be Put to Vote

The proposed constitutional revisions and amendments to the by-laws will be voted upon at the W. A. A. meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the concert room Lathrop hall instead of the S. G. A. room.

These amendments are posted on the W. A. A. bulletin board and propose that there shall be recording and corresponding secretary's instead of one acting secretary; that these officers shall be members of the executive board and that the vice-president shall not have charge of hikes and dancing honors as formerly, the executive board shall approv. rather than appoint all committees.

W. A. A. pins will no longer qualify members for offices but all candidates must now have 300 points to be eligible if the proposed amendment is accepted.

Corporations Get Time Extension on U. S. Tax

Domestic corporations paying federal income tax have until June 15 in which to make final report on their incomes during the past year, instead of Mar. 15, it was announced Saturday by H. C. Hale, chief of the Madison division. The extension is given however with the provision that all persons coming under the federal law must have presented a tentative report on or before Mar. 15. The period was extended to allow a greater length of time to domestic corporations in which to complete final statements.

Plan to Limit Power of State Real Estate Board

Revision of the state real estate brokers law, so as to remove from the state brokers board the power to revoke licenses and to require the board to license brokers after written examinations, will be advocated by the group of real estate brokers of the Green Bay Real Estate board, according to information received here. Power of revoking brokers' licenses would be lodged in the circuit courts, under the proposed amendments.

Five men were elected to the Advertising club at the first regular meeting held this semester on Thursday night. The men are Ellis G. Fulton '25, Carl R. Hansen '25, Cornelius A. Ross '24, George Lowen Morrill '25 and Albert B. Tucker '25. D. R. Fellows of the business administration department spoke on the work of the advertising agency at the meeting.

OSHKOSH—Funds are being raised for the erection of a $75,000 building to be used by the members of St. Mary's Catholic church on Merritt street as a community building.

MARINE FORCE LANDS SUPPLIES AT PORTO RICO

The Marine Corps expeditionary force landing military supplies in maneuvers at Porto Rico (above) and (below) the U. S. S. New York cutting into the open sea past the breakwater which forms Colon Harbor.

The Marine Corps of the United States is being declared to be in the "pink of condition" for any eventuality as a result of the extraordinary showing of its expeditionary force in maneuvers near Porto Rico.

One of the accomplishments of the force was the landing of more than 3,000,000 pounds of military stores in the record time of six and a half days. The landing stage ran from the shore to the transport, "Sirius" in the harbor. The battle fleet also participated in maneuvers at Porto Rico, working out an elaborate scheme of defense.

Two Officers of U. W. Freshmen Class Out

Because of the withdrawal from school of two of the officers of the Freshman class, the unique situation of having a sergeant-at-arms succeed to a position on the student senate has arisen. Freshmen will, therefore, be represented on the student governing body by their lowest ranking class officer.

The vacancy in the student senate, occasioned by the withdrawal of Richard Herrmann '27, class president, will be filled by Harlow Klement '27, sergeant-at-arms, according to Harold Seering '24, president of the senate.

"The constitution of the student senate provides that the next highest ranking male officer of the class shall automatically succeed to the position left vacant by the withdrawal of the class representative," Seering said.

At the last meeting of the senate Andrew Alexander '27, treasurer of the first year class, was voted to fill Herrmann's place, but he has also withdrawn in the meantime, leaving Klement the highest ranking male officer.

The withdrawal of Herrmann and Alexander leaves two women as ranking officers of their class. Virginia Sinclair '27, who was elected vice president last fall, succeeds to the presidency. Kathryn Linden '26, is secretary.

Choose Chairmen for Religious Conference

The committee chairmen for the annual all-university religious conference to be held February 29, March 1 and 2 were announced yesterday by Rosamond Nolte '24, in charge of the Y. W. C. A. work and Gamber F. Tegtmeyer '24, student president of the Y. M. C. A.

These two organizations are cooperating with the churches and the other student religious organizations in planning the conference, it was said by the directors.

The committee heads are arrangements, Done E. Bloodgood '25; music, Roberta M. Odell '26 and Clarence J. Muth '25; discussional groups, Elizabeth G. Stolte '25, and Arno J. Haack '25; inter-church relations, Dorothy Simpson '24, and Lawrence O. Denyes, law 2; fraternities, Clifford C. Franseen '25; publicity, Margaret S. Chamberlain '26 and Harold J. Wichern '25.

Probe Effect of Paper Mill Waste on River

An extensive survey of the Wisconsin river to determine the effect of waste materials from paper mills on the water supply, is being conducted by the sanitary division of the state department of health, it was revealed Friday. The effect of paper mill waste on river waters has been a subject of much controversy. Samples of water were collected above and below the courses of pollution in the vicinity of Rhinelander, Tomahawk, Merrill, Wausau, Mosinee, Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids. It is proposed to follow this survey by the collection of additional samples next summer at a lower stage of the river and under different climatic conditions.

Five Madison People at Washington Dinner

Alumni of the University of Wisconsin in Washington, D. C., celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the university, with a dinner at the University Women's club.

Dean C. S. Slichter of the graduate school and Mrs. Slichter, Ralph Hess and Judge J. K. Parish made addresses. Representative E. E. Browne acted as toastmaster. There were more than 100 alumni present including R. W. Jackman, T. J. Crowe, E. Diedrick of Madison.

Outlines State's Efforts to Cleanse Water Supply

Steps taken by the state to make water supplies safer and improve sewerage conditions, are outlined in the 1923 report of the bureau of sanitary engineering, by C. M. Baker, state sanitary engineer. The report lists the following investigations conducted during the year: Water supplies, 61; sewerage, 35; canneries, 23; milk products, 72; tanneries, 1; pulp and paper mills, 8; miscellaneous, 23; total, 243.

W. A. A. Installs File To Catalogue Their Alumnae Activities

W. A. A. has installed a new file in the office in which all the names of the 700 alumnae of the society are catalogued with their present address and all the information of their activities.

Work was begun on the file last summer and it is not as yet completely finished. The file is to be used to send letters of publicity for the cottage drive.

The file is also a great aid in collecting information for the W. A. A. scrap book which is being compiled under the direction of Margaret Meirer '25. Mable Rugen '25 is sending letters to all the alumnae collecting pictures, programs and clippings concerning all W. A. A. activities which have taken place since W. A. A. was organized in 1907.

Discussion Meets Are New Features In Church Program

Discussional meetings will be introduced as a new feature in the regular Sunday program of the University Presbyterian church tomorrow.

The regular fellowship supper at 5:30 o'clock will be followed by devotional exercises. At 7:00 o'clock the members will divide into three groups to discuss national, university and religious subjects.

Of the 40 enrolled for special topics, the majority have selected as their subject, "War as a Method for Obtaining Peace." The discussions will be entirely controlled by the student members, and there is to be absolute freedom of election of subject and group.

New Greek Fraternity Founded at Varsity

That is the distinction which belongs to the Beta Sigma Pi, 138 West Gorham street.

The newest of Wisconsin's Greek letter fraternities is the Beta Sigma Pi, officially recognized by the university authorities on January 5 of this year. It purchased its home on February 1 and occupied it a week later. It has no affiliations with any national fraternity, but is a purely local organization, founded by Wisconsin men.

The officers of the organization are Cornelius Poppe '24, president; George L. Arbuthnot, vice-president; Clayton M. Bond '24, treasurer; and Thomas S. Pinney, secretary. The fraternity has 18 members.

Y. W. Freshmen at U. W. Name Officers

Peggy Read '26 was elected president of the Y. W. C. A. freshman commission at the meeting held last Thursday. Other officers elected to serve for this year are Elizabeth Adams '26, vice president; Barbara Bacon '26, secretary; and Nellie Bilstad '26, treasurer.

Drop Sponsorship Idea for University Cadets

Plans for a system of sorority sponsorship for drill companies in the military department as announced by student officers during the past semester have been dropped, it was revealed yesterday.

The reasons for the discontinuance of the sponsor plan, whereby each drill unit would have the support, interest and help of one of the campus sororities, are not very clear, but it is thought to be due chiefly to the lack of interest on the part of the girls.

In actual practice, had the sponsor plan been tried, one girl of each sorority would have been elected to represent the chapter and be the active sponsor. Dances given by the companies for their sponsors would have been encouraged, the chief idea of the plan being to interest the men in their military work and to create greater loyalty to their companies and the department.

Ross Speaker at Discussional Meet

A case may be made either for or against the contention that civilization is really progressing by the selection of facts, according to the opinion expressed by Prof. E. A. Ross of the sociology department in his talk before the first meeting of the leaders of the Y. M. C. A. group discussionals at the luncheon yesterday noon in the fellowship room of the Y. M. C. A.

The professor took up the aspects of the five problems of the amazing reduction in the death rate by scientific living, universal reading, scientific progress, the family relations and religion.

Universal reading, itself a good thing, produces unrest and migration among the people of the less fortunate countries to those more favored, the professor pointed out. Poison gases never known before are the products of scientific progress. Defense consists of destroying the civilization of our enemies.

East Indian Is Popular as Avocoa Cow Tester

AVOCA, Wis.—Members of the Avoca Cow Testing association can't pronounce their tester's name, yet they are proud of him.

Vallabhdas Hargovdnas Dani is the name and they are proud of him, not only because of the good work which he is doing in the association, but because of the fact that he recently won the state-wide stockmen's judging contest held in Madison. He is a native of Bombay, India, and has only been in this country three years. He has done work at the University of Illinois and expects to finish his college course at the University of Wisconsin.

Methodists to Hear Plantz This Month

Promotion of interest among Methodist students in the Campus Religious Conference is the object of the Wesley Foundation student cabinet in bringing President Samuel Plantz of Lawrence College to Madison according to Lawrence Denyes, president of the cabinet. "Dr. Plantz will speak at two suppers to be held for all Methodist students at the end of the month.

Warns Farmers to Keep Good Seed Corn In State

Are Wisconsin farmers asleep at the switch?

Unless they wake up very soon and switch some of the shipments of seed corn which are going out of the state back onto Badger farms, the 1924 corn crop will severely suffer.

The demands we are having for seed corn from outside parties is four or five times as great as those we are receiving from our own farmers," declares R. A. Moore, agronomist of the college of agriculture here. "Unless our farmers wake up in a hurry they will find the good, kiln-dried seed corn of the state a thing of the past."

Through the members of the association a large quantity of corn was cured in the state even though we did not have one of the best corn years in 1923. However, a goodly quantity of corn was saved and all kiln-dried very nicely. But the demand for good seed corn has been so great from the outside states that thousands of bushels are rolling out of Wisconsin every day.

SPARTA—At the February meeting of the city council, W. J. Daehn was appointed alderman to fill the vacancy made by the death of E. W. Dickerson. Mr. Daehn is road master for the Northwestern road. Mayor Robert B. McCoy has appointed W. O. Naset city controller.

PESHTIGO—A. C. Witherbee has resigned as general superintendent of the Peshtigo Paper company. He came here from Camas, Wash., last summer.

Our Saturday Open Letters

TO F. A. VANDERLIP

Dear Mr. Vanderlip: We are unable to understand why a man of your standing should make such a perfect fool of himself as you have in the Marion Star matter. Your defense that you gave utterance to the rumors simply because you wanted to clear up the inuendoes being circulated about the dead president is mere piffle. You stand completely humiliated and discredited before the American people and you deserve the predicament in which you find yourself. Next time get your facts before you shoot.

* * *

TO MADISON STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYES

To Street Car Employes: Col. Penrod, the irresponsible pilot of the Ticks column, attempted to indulge in some low comedy at the expense of the Wingra park car line employes several days ago. As a result, Col. Penrod has gotten us into all sorts of difficulty with our street car friends. Apparently you took him seriously. The Capital Times has, on several occasions expressed its regard for the courteous and considerate employes who man our street cars. Then comes the lugubrious Penrod and spills the beans. We have commissioned the office Cheka, Bill Dawson, to polish his firearms and lay low the scoundrel in the last column.

* * *

TO THE U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Dear Plutes: We have received your pamphlet in which you outline the reasons why Uncle Sam should not pay the bonus. Here is the star piece of bunk: "Through the granting of a bonus, the cherished ideals of America would be weakened, the obligations of citizenship would seem less insistent, and the right of this republic to call upon its citizens to bear arms in its defense would be subject to contract negotiation instead of a response to patriotic duty awarded by the preservation of the country's integrity. To adopt the policy of distributing public funds to special groups of citizens would set this government upon a road over which no nation yet has ever beaten a successful retreat." Fine talk from the "ten per cent plus" boys. What hypocrisy,—the men who looted the country during the war talking of "response to patriotic duty." How many one legged members of chambers of commerce are there in the country?

* * *

TO THE FRENCH BATTERY AND CARBON CO.

Dear French Co.: Through the courtesy of the Y. M. C. A. we have received a card case given by your company. We understand that you have given the Y. M. C. A 500 of these cases to be distributed to paid-up members. We appreciate the one we have received.

* * *

TO EMERSON ELA

Dear Emerson: The enemies of the tobacco pool are continually on the job, eh, Emerson? Your argument that the demodified decision of the Supreme court is of little consequence seems logical. Members have entered into a contract with the pool. Contracts cannot be voluntarily broken. Members of the pool who withdraw and attempt to deal with the Bekkedahl Co., therefore, will undoubtedly be in for some trouble.

* * *

TO A. T. ROGERS, NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Dear Mr. Rogers: We understand that the Hotel Winton at Cleveland has been picked as the Wisconsin headquarters at the coming national convention at Cleveland. Will seem funny, won't it, to have a national convention and not have the Wisconsin crowd at the Atlantic in Chicago? But "Make the convention safe for Cal" now seems to be the program and so Wisconsin progressives must dig down in their jeans for the extra fare to Cleveland.

* * *

TO THE CAPITAL TIMES BASKETBALL TEAM

Dear Team: We shall try to be at the ringside at the Y tonight to pull for a victory for you over your Waukesha rivals. If you hustle as much tonight as you do in selling Capital Times each day you should dazzle your opponents. The Capital Times takes its hat off to its hustling newsboys.

Voice of the People

MR. DEAN IN REPLY.

[To The Editor]—"A Comings Supporter," who secures space in your paper today to make a personal attack on me, but who does not have the courage to give his name, challenges my right to speak for the drys of Wisconsin. I have made no claim for such right except insofar as obtained by talking with some two thousand of them in various parts of the state and in all walks of life during the past seven months. I may not have been fair in this, but have tried to be, and believe that I have obtained a good idea of the situation.

Probably the charges made against me by your correspondent are not worth refuting, but for fear that some may be led to think them well founded, I will say that I did hold a position with the last legislature, but the records will show that I secured the same in a fair civil service competition, being one of two applicants to qualify for a position in which there were four vacancies.

I did have the honor to be sent to Washington to a national Law Enforcement (NOT an "alcoholic") convention, which I considered was in recognition of the assistance I had rendered the prohibition commission in gathering information regarding violations of the prohibition law, and as I was told the commissioner desired a report of the convention and could not spare the time himself to attend.

Now if the above be heinous crimes, and if recognition of actual service performed by public officials constitutes a betrayal of the "dry" cause, then I plead guilty, but I have done and shall continue to do what I believe to be the best thing for the cause of good government, to which I have given without stint the past 15 years of my life. If the supporters of Mr. Comings think they can make headway by engaging in a mud-slinging campaign, let them go to it. —Wm. C. Dean.

Nor limit thoughts dominion.
You cannot put ideas in jail:
You can't deport opinion.

You cannot make a Truth untrue
By dint of legal fiction,
You cannot prison human view
You can't convict conviction.

—Edmund Vance Cook.

Of late I have been reading considerable about the Teapot Dome scandal—articles and editorials written by both friends and enemies of the Harding and the present administration.

From my point of view obtained from the evidence secured and presented to the senate relative to that scandal, it looks as though late President Harding was acquainted with the details relating to that scandal and that his entire cabinet was aware of what was going on in that matter.

In the editorials and articles written by the friends of the Harding and present administration there is a general trend that seems to infer that President Coolidge was entirely ignorant of that scandal. President Coolidge was vice president under the Harding administration under which that deal was pulled off, a member of the president's official family, active in the business of the administration, a man of more than ordinary intelligence and ability, yet was entirely ignorant of what was going on relative to the dirtiest scandal ever pulled off in the history of the United States. Was he?—Alex Wallace, Stevens Point, Wis.

The State Press

There is a strong feeling of revolt against the drunken automobile driver and it is doubtful if the penalty is heavy enough. Rum runners have their cars confiscated. Yet the drunken driver is more dangerous than the rum-runners. A fine is not heavy enough punishment. Take his car and put him in jail, too. "Treat 'em rough!"—New Glarus Post.

Governor Blaine should not get so hot up over the conditions at the various state institutions. The surprising thing is that he had named all the members of the state board of control and that his own agents helped to permit such conditions to exist. If the governor had been right up on his toes in being a governor he should have discovered these conditions a long time ago.—Kenosha News.

A little heartier enthusiasm in the prosecution of the oil lease fraud cases would not be out of place from President Coolidge. The people of the country know that wrong has been done in high places and they look to their executive to take the lead in ferreting out the criminals, restoring the stolen property and safe-guarding them against future occurrences. —Wisconsin Rapids Tribune.

This newspaper admits it is very hard to report meetings of the Eau Claire board of education. Routine matters only are allowed, generally speaking, to come before the notice of a representative of the press.

"We do this," said a board official frankly, to a reporter, "because we believe it is best. A good many things come up before the board and there is freer discussion if reporters are not present."—Eau Claire Leader.

And then things happen in Eau Claire that have taken place in Madison.

What an embarrassing combination: A full cradle and an empty purse.

Listening In On Congress

SMART FELLOWS

THE great commercial interests are always smarter than the government. We do not always read these reports (of the Naval Consulting Board of the U. S.) but Mr. Doheny and Mr. Sinclair always read them. They got the benefit of the fact that this great board of experts had determined that the oil supply within our own borders would be exhausted in 22 years and they got busy to get possession of these oil fields (naval reserve), and they have succeeded very admirably for the time being.
—Senator Copeland (D.), N. Y.

HANDICAPPED

PHYSICALLY handicapped people nearly always have what I believe is called a neurosis of some sort. I call it a compensation complex, a fear complex, a down-and-out feeling. That is what they get, whenever a man has an injury to the extent that he cannot follow his own usual occupation. He thinks he is down and out. You have to go and talk with him and encourage him.
—Dr. R. M. Little before House Committee on Education.

Looking Backward

Poems That Live

LINES.

When the lamp is shatter'd,
The light in the dust lies dead;
Whore the cloud is scattered,
The rainbow's glory is shed;
When the lute is broken,
Sweet tones are remembered not;
When the lips have spoken,
Loved accents are soon forgot.

As music and splendour
Survive not the lamp and the lute,
The heart's echoes render
No song when the spirit is mute—
No song but sad dirges,
Like the wind through a ruin'd cell,
Or the mournful surges
That ring the dead seaman's knell.

When hearts have once mingled,
Love first leaves the well-built nest;
The weak one is singled
To endure what it once possest.
O Love, who bewailest
The frailty of all things here,
Why choose you the frailest
For your cradle, your home and your bier?

Its passions will rock thee,
As the storms rock the ravens on high:
Bright reason will mock thee,
Like the sun from a wintry sky.
From thy nest every rafter
Will rot, and thine eagle home
Leave thee naked to laughter,
When leaves fall and cold winds come.

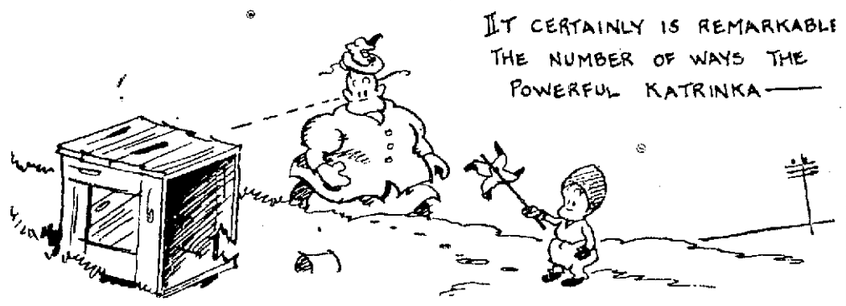

A Word on Health

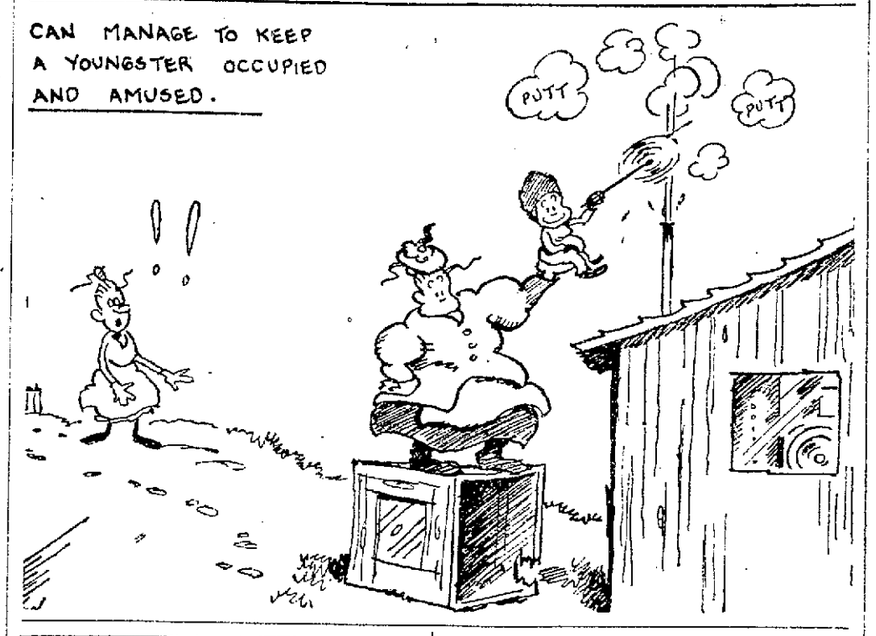

So we clean up in the winter and we're healthy in the spring.

Said the sage of the village—
"I've noticed that fate
Deals harshly with people
Who don't vaccinate."

There was a little girl,
Ands she had a little curl,
That was pasted down flat on her face.
And when she was good,
She was very, very bad,
And when she was bad, she was base.

The Powerful Katrinka

Bright and Brief

OF the millions and a half excess of women in England, more than a third are those who, though wanting husbands and families, are doomed to spinsterhood because there are not enough men to go around. It isn't the men who were killed in the war that makes the shortage so acute. This is what happened: The girls who were at what is called the marriageable age when the men went away were six years older by the time most of the demobilized males were in a position to marry. Manlike, they had their eyes set on the younger girls and the ones who would in the regular course of things have been their mates are left.
—Miss Helen Fraser, twice defeated Liberal candidate for Parliament, visiting this country.

IT is easier to get stage fright before a radio audience than when you face a crowd in an auditorium. It is the unknown that frightens us. If you have an audience before you, you can see their reactions. Talking into a microphone, you have no idea to whom you are speaking nor how they respond.
—James J. Jeffreys, Philadelphia broadcaster.

Natureland

THE ape, orang-utan, reported to be a distant relative of man, fights only with his teeth when he scraps with another O-U. They stand up to it toe to toe, like our own pugilists. First move is to grab at each other's paws. If one gets a grip, he swiftly brings the "hand" to his mouth and one or two fingers of the enemy's "hand" are gone, clean as a whistle, in a twinkling. But if he doesn't block, the other has in the meantime lunged his head forward and as the other spits out the fingers, he has him by the lips. Nearly all captured orang-utans are minus fingers, toes and sections of lip, lost in jungle fighting.

A beginning cancer is always a minor affair, curable by a minor operation.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

LITTLE CHILDREN.

Little children make a clatter,
Always something is the matter.
Shriek and shout and bang and noise
Follow little girls and boys;
Many a treasured thing is broken,
Many an angry word is spoken,
Many a youthful brawl or riot
Interrupts the hour of quiet.

Little children in a dwelling
Oft indulge in needless yelling.
There's a trail of cookie crumbs,
Smudgy fingers, smudgy thumbs.
Muddy feet, and toys discarded.
Howsoe'er the home is guarded;
Constant scolding and forgiving
Where the little ones are living.

Little children keep you busy
Picking up until you're dizzy;
There's no end, it seems, unto
All the things you have to do.
And in spite of your endeavor,
Still disorder reigns forever;
Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday,
Any day the home's untidy.

Right you are, oh, weary mother!
But I'll take you to another
House, where all is strangely still,
Where no racket ever will
Sets its owners to complaining.
And where order prim is reigning.
Lovely house! But could you bear it
If you had no child to share it?

A Thought

Am I therefore become your enemy because I tell you the truth?—Gal. 4:16.

He that openly tells his friends all that he thinks of them, must expect that they will secretly tell his enemies much that they do not think of him.——Colton.

A book fell into my hands [illegible] which made a greater impre[illegible] more pretentious volumes. [illegible] CONSIN IDEA (Mc Millan [illegible] Charles McCarthy.

This column is supposed [illegible] deal only with new, up-to-date [illegible] ly any sensible person will forg[illegible] sertation on a book the callin[illegible] CONSIN IDEA.

The inspiration for Dr. McCarthy's [illegible] ful work came from a situation [illegible] from some source, more or [illegible] knowledge of the Wisconsin program [illegible] tution building. In the days of [illegible] consin ideals in the developing [illegible] versity and other educational [illegible] control of corporations, in exploiting [illegible] cultural advantages, were all [illegible] spiration for other states.

A few acid remarks might be [illegible] with regard to the conception [illegible] held by the last legislature. But I will [illegible] that Mc Carthy's attitude represents [illegible] time trend of developments in the state [illegible] the antics of comedians in the last [illegible] stituted, so to speak, a political [illegible]

With the status of McCarthy's book established as bespeaking the true sentiment [illegible] state development, would it not be a [illegible] thing were every freshman at the [illegible] required to read and report on it? [illegible] that many who come from within the [illegible] enroll at the University have a very [illegible] spective on the Wisconsin idea. Certainly [illegible] students from other states cannot know [illegible] more about it.

As an out of state student myself, I [illegible] truthfully that no one incident or [illegible] tion of incidents fired me with more [illegible] pride in my connection with Wisconsin [illegible] way that McCarthy's book did.

We will all agree that occurrences [illegible] those in Williamson County, Illinois [illegible] Oklahoma, have materially less chance [illegible] ing place, where a real intense [illegible] in evidence. The wide dissemination of [illegible] which burns within the covers of Dr. McCarthy's volume would help insure the [illegible] a Wisconsin state spirit. And who will [illegible] tend that that is not to be desired.

EARLY DEATH.

She pass'd away like morning dew
Before the sun was high:
So brief her time, she scarcely knew
The meaning of a sigh.

As round the rose its soft perfume
Sweet love around her floated;
Admired she grew—while mortal doom
Crept on, unfear'd, unnoted.

Love was her guardian Angel here.
But Love to Death resigned her;
Tho' Love was kind, why should we fear
But holy Death is kinder?

—Hartley Coleridge
